Lipsey And Crystal Positive Economics:

An Introduction to Positive Economics Richard G. Lipsey, 1966 Construction Economics Danny Myers, 2013-01-17

Construction Economics provides students with the principles and concepts underlying the relationship between economic theory and the construction industry. The New Approach adopts an argument that economics is central to government initiatives concerning sustainable construction. This edition has been revised to explain the effects of the current economic crisis on the construction industry. In addition, sections relating to less developed countries, the economics of sustainable development, and theories relating to a firm's bid strategy have all been rewritten. With new data, examples, initiatives, readings, glossary items, and references, the third edition of this established core text builds on the strengths of the previous edition: a clear and user-friendly style; use of a second colour to highlight important definitions and formulae; regular summaries of key points; a glossary of key terms; extensive use of tables and figures; extracts from the academic journal Construction Management and Economics to consolidate and prompt discussion; reviews of useful websites. This invaluable textbook is essential reading across a wide range of disciplines, from construction management and civil engineering to architecture, property, and surveying.

The Operations of Chinese Infrastructure Multinationals in Africa Yuxuan Tang, 2021-08-26

The book aims to analyse and evaluate the strategic positioning of China's participation in terms of firm-level performance in the generation of infrastructure capacity in African countries. Africa counts among its development challenges a major bottleneck of infrastructure capacity and shortage of investable capital. China's long period of high growth generates the strengths to secure availability of energy from Africa by enhancing infrastructure provision for the region. To achieve this complementary macro-level development beyond the traditional dimension of infrastructure provision, ODA Chinese IMNEs become the vital players on the intersection of these processes. Thus, this research makes practical and analytical contributions to international business studies and development issues by making concrete the analysis of bilateral development processes from a macro context to a micro-level framework, e.g. focusing on ICT and construction sectors, then fitting this into the real-world story. Infrastructure itself is a key element for potential investment and development processes. Therefore, how IMNEs achieve not only exist simply in a way of a commercial-oriented investment but also in their implications for development and political-related issues.

Consumerism in Twentieth-Century Britain Matthew Hilton, 2003-11-13

This book is the first comprehensive history of consumerism as an organised social and political movement. Matthew Hilton offers a groundbreaking account of consumer movements, ideologies, and organisations in twentieth-century Britain. He argues that in organisations such as the Co-operative movement and the Consumers Association, individual concern with what and how we spend our wages led to forms of political engagement too often overlooked in existing accounts of twentieth-century history. He explores how the consumer and consumerism came to be regarded by many as a third force in society with the potential to free politics from the perceived stranglehold of the self-interested actions of employers and trade unions Finally he recovers the visions of countless consumer activists who saw in consumption a genuine force for liberation for women the working class and new social movements as well as a set of ideas often deliberately excluded from more established political organisations
