Traditional Architecture of the Arabian Gulf R. Hawker, 2008-06-10 This book chronicles the florescence of architecture in the Arabian Gulf after the expulsion of the Portuguese in the early 1600 s It demonstrates how the power vacuum created by the collapse of Portuguese control over the trade routes in the Indian Ocean encouraged a growth in fortified architecture especially in Oman that radiated out to the surrounding region and was then slowly replaced by new patterns in domestic and public architecture and town planning throughout the Gulf as the trade lines were secured and the individual countries took the first steps towards the formation of today s modern nation states The book documents the buildings and crafts of this era and analyses them within the framework of the political economic and social information available through primary sources from the period in a way that is both intelligent and accessible It considers the settlements as part of a larger connected network of cities towns and villages and focuses both on how the buildings provided innovative solutions to the demanding climate and yet incorporated new decorative and functional ideas Topics are extensively and richly illustrated with colored photographs of the buildings as they are now black and white and color historic photographs from archival and museum collections line drawings and computer generated reconstructions The book is therefore attractive to a number of audiences including those who live in or travel to the Gulf as well as people with an interest in Arab and Islamic design culture and society vernacular architecture and post colonial approaches to colonial history
