

Chapter 7: The Basics of Experimentation

Much of the research currently done in the field of psychology is experimental. Moreover, an understanding of the principles of experimentation strengthens any researcher's potential for success.

When it is feasible, psychologists prefer experiments to other research methods because a properly conducted experiment allows us to draw causal inferences about behavior. When an experiment is well conducted, it is high in internal validity.

To review briefly, the psychology experiment has these main features: We first manipulate the antecedent conditions to create at least two different treatment conditions. At least two treatments are required so that we can make statements about the impact of different sets of antecedents; if we used only one treatment, there would be no way to evaluate what happens to behaviors as the conditions change. We expose subjects to different treatment conditions so that we can measure the effects of those conditions on behavior. We record the responses or behaviors of subjects under various conditions and then compare them using statistics. We can then assess whether our predictions are confirmed.

Independent and Dependent Variables

Experimental Hypothesis

- In the simplest experiments, an experimental hypothesis states a potential relationship between two variables: If A occurs, then we expect B to follow.

- In an experiment, variables are measurable elements that can vary or take on different values along some dimension. To be more precise, the experimental hypothesis expresses a potential relationship between two kinds of variables, the independent and the dependent variable

Independent Variable (IV)

- It is the dimension that the experimenter intentionally manipulates; it is the antecedent the experimenter chooses to vary. This variable is "independent" in the sense that its values are created by the experimenter and are not affected by anything else that happens in the experiment.

Independent variables are sometimes aspects of the physical environment that can be brought under the experimenter's direct control. Lighting (bright or dim) and noise levels (loud or soft) are some examples of environmental variables.

To meet the definition of an experiment, at least two different treatment conditions are required; thus, an IV must be given at least two possible values in every experiment. The researcher decides which values of the IV to use. These values are called the levels of the independent variable in the experiment.

If the IV is to have two levels, there must be two different treatment conditions; if three values of the IV are to be used, there must be three different treatment conditions, and so on.

For example, suppose a professor gives tests on either blue or yellow paper to see if the color of the paper influences the scores. Blue and yellow represent two

Study Guide for Psychology, Seventh Edition Richard O. Straub, David G. Myers, 2003-06-20 This new edition continues the story of psychology with added research and enhanced content from the most dynamic areas of the field: cognition, gender, and diversity studies, neuroscience, and more, while at the same time using the most effective teaching approaches and learning tools.

Exploring Psychology Study Guide Richard O. Straub, 2004-03-31 This study guide for David Myers' best-selling text for introductory psychology courses is compelling and concise with a global perspective on psychology. This edition has been thoroughly updated and includes new features and a media supplements package.

Psychology: First Canadian Edition Study Guide Richard O. Straub, 2006-09-15 Following the text's content, Richard Straub offers a Chapter Overview and Chapter Review which is divided by major section. Each group of fill-in-the-blank and short-answer questions is preceded by the relevant objective from the text. The Study Guide also includes three self-tests, one of which encourages students to think critically about the chapter's concepts, answers with page references for the self-tests, and explanations of why a choice is correct or incorrect, and a Focus on Language and Vocabulary section which explains idioms and other phrases used by David Myers in the text that may not be clear to some readers.

Learning for Life Yvonne Craig, 1994-01-01 Providing guidance on how to grow and lead more stimulated lives, this work describes six models of adult learning and gives 25 methods by which adults learn. The book provides advice on planning religious/educational events, sets out the pros and cons of assessment and accreditation, and describes nine real events. This book is intended for all those involved in Church Adult Education and all clergy and lay workers.

Mergers, Acquisitions, and Other Restructuring Activities Donald DePamphilis, 2013-10-01 In the seventh edition of Mergers, Acquisitions, and Other Restructuring Activities, winner of a 2014 Textbook Excellence Award (Texty) from the Text and Academic Authors Association, Donald DePamphilis looks into the heart of current economic trends. In addition to a new chapter on the ways deals are financed, more than 85% of the 54 integrative case studies are new and involve transactions announced or completed since 2010. This new edition anchors its insights and conclusions in the most recent academic research with references to more than 170 empirical studies published in leading peer-reviewed journals since 2010. Practical exhibits, case studies involving diverse transactions, easy-to-understand numerical examples, and hundreds of discussion questions and practical exercises are included. This substantially updated content, supplemented by questions from CFA Institute examinations, offers the only comprehensive exploration of today's business transactions. Mergers, acquisitions, and restructuring transactions reveal the inner workings of our economy. This longstanding award-winning treatment lays out what every student and professional should understand about their parts, what they are intended to accomplish, and what their competitive, strategic, and value consequences are. Winner of a 2014 Texty Award from the Text and Academic Authors Association. Includes up-to-date and notable transactions: Facebook's takeover of Instagram.
