

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR ENGLISH PRONUNCIATION

1 DECIDE ON THE OPTION OF ENGLISH

English has different ways of pronouncing the same words. For example, in many cases, the British do not pronounce the letter 'r' while Americans do. Australian English uses very different vowels than British English, which means that the same word can sound completely different. So don't get confused when you hear different statements. Choose which accent you want to teach yourself and look for films or series from the corresponding country to discover the characteristics of the pronunciation.

2 BREAK THE WORDS DOWN INTO SOUND

Practice a number of basic sounds from the English language every day. Start with a few sounds, and these are letters or syllables. Breaking the word into syllables will make it easier for you to pronounce. After practicing the sounds of each syllable, switch to the pronunciation of the entire word, and then use the words in a sentence.

3 TALK SLOWER

Quick talk reinforces bad habits. You will find that many people rattle on in the hope that a wrong statement will go unnoticed. Try to find peace when talking, give yourself time to pay attention to the pronunciation of the words you will use when speaking. That way, you are actively recognizing errors and working towards a better English pronunciation.

4 IMITATE AN ENGLISH EXPERT

There is no greater expert than the Englishman himself. In the media, you will find English speakers everywhere. You can turn on the English radio, watch TV, or follow an English series without subtitles. Listen very carefully and focus on the pronunciation of the English words. Even if you do not know the meaning of the terms, you learn the correct sounds and intonation.

5 PRACTICE ON YOUR OWN

Pronunciation problems often persist because people are afraid of making mistakes, hence avoiding some words as much as possible. As earlier said, imitating an English expert is the best way to learn some of the pronunciations that you find hard. Practice and speak out loud as much as possible. Don't fear how you are pronouncing your words. Practice until you can get the right pronunciation. You can pretend you are introducing yourself to new people, giving instruction, presentation, and many more.

6 LISTEN TO YOURSELF

To know where your pronunciation problem is to start improving, it is important to realize where there is room for improvement. The best way to find out is to record your voice via your phone, iPad, voice recorder, etc. Listen carefully to your pronunciation and compare your pronunciation with that of an expert/native speaker. Try to note the points where your pronunciation differs so that you know what you need to improve. Continue to record your voice and, at the same time, watch and listen to English speakers, especially the native. Actively look for areas for improvement by comparing yourself with different speakers and set goals for yourself.

7 WATCH YOURSELF

Talking is a physical movement. This is because the English language uses different sounds and movements of the speech organs. Stand in front of the mirror and see what happens to your face when you pronounce some words. How do your mouth, lips, and tongue move? Do they move in the same way as a native English speaker? Film yourself while you speak English and look back to check if you did it right.

8 FIND A PRACTICE BUDDY

To improve your pronunciation, you must receive feedback. Look for a colleague or friend who also wants to improve his or her pronunciation and work on it together. Another person will often recognize errors in your pronunciation that you are not aware of. Agree to identify each other's mistakes, record your conversations, and give each other unsalted criticism. You can also choose to compare yourself with other people around you and see how they pronounce certain words. Normally, there are a number of fixed characteristics of English that are difficult for people in a certain region.

9 SING A SONG

Learn the lyrics of an English song by heart and reverb with it. Through singing, you learn to relax, and the pronunciation will feel more natural. Singing also ensures that you work on your stress, sentence rhythm, and intonation.

10 PRACTICE ENGLISH SOUNDS.

There is a special alphabet in which each letter describes a certain sound. This is the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA). This special alphabet can be a useful help if you want to focus on specific, individual sounds. Look up the pronunciation of English sounds via the IPA on the internet and talk.

41 Rules of Pronunciation of English Words Ram Nivas Kumar, We often see that people in India and some other regions speak in their way others fail to understand or hardly come to the sense of the speech Why is this The reason behind is that there is a lack of uniformity in pronunciation of their words Well one is not free to speak one s own pronunciation There must be uniformity in the matter of pronunciation of English words at least in a certain region Keeping this in view I made consistent efforts for several years to collect the rules concerned to add some uniformity to the subject And based on the depth study of advanced dictionaries of international fame I found out 41 rules of pronunciation which I assembled all them and composed of this book Well knowledge of English is regarded as an index of education and the ability to speak English correctly is regarded as an index of good schooling Without knowledge of English the education of a literate person may seem to be interrogated Now learning English is an ever growing demand And speaking English correctly is a social requirement as well While we speak of spoken English we are afraid of the correct pronunciation of the words coming to our tongue To help readers learn pronunciation of English words I made an intensive research went through lots of dictionaries of international fame found out some general rules assembled all them and asked one to follow illustrative not exhaustive First I would like to make it clear that sound and pronunciation are not the same things Both are somewhat different things The sound of a particular word depends on our lung tongue larynx and pharynx It also depends upon climatic condition and geographical spheres While human mechanism is capable of producing many sounds of a single word the pronunciation of a particular word is fixed for all and included in almost all dictionaries of international fame There exists no single form of pronunciation which alone can be regarded as correct The pronunciation fixed by Prof R K Bansal of the University of English and Foreign Languages Hyderabad and Prof A C Gimson of the University of London may differ from that of Collins Dictionary Primitive pristine However some general rules have been fixed for better learning Table of Contents
