Smith, Saleemul Huq, Stephanie Lenhart, Luis José Mata, Ivana Nemesová, Sekou Touré, 2013-03-09 Martin Parry University College London UK The 13 country studies collected in this report represent the first of what is likely to become a worldwide country by country Carter et al 1994 as an agreed technical estimate of the likely impacts of and approach set of scientific methods for climate impact private adaptations to greenhouse gas in assessment and has written its own guidance deduced global climate change document Guidance for Vulnerability and Adaptation Assessment U S CSP 1994 Under the U N Framework Convention on The U S Country Studies Program develop Climate Change UNFCCC signatories opened the Guidance and other reviews of agreed to two near term actions and one methodology into a nonspecialist set of job subsequent one The two near term action workbooks for use at the country level actions are to make annual estimates of the which backed up by advice from experience emissions and sinks of greenhouse gases encouraged scientists from the United States and which are now being reported as part of a other countries enabled local scientists to country by country inventory developed by conduct their own vulnerability and adaptation the U N Environment Programme the Organization assessments Regional Assessment of Climate Change in the Mediterranean Antonio Navarra, Laurence Tubiana, 2013-02-28 This is the third volume of a three volume final report which thoroughly describes synthesizes and analyzes the results of the four year Integrated Research Project CIRCE Climate Change and Impact Research Mediterranean Environment funded by the EU 6th Framework Programme Conducted under the auspices of the National Institute of Geophysics and Volcanology in Rome Italy the study was designed to predict and to quantify the physical impacts of climate change in the Mediterranean and to assess the most influential consequences for the population of the region Climate Change Adaptation in Developed Nations James D. Ford, Lea Berrang-Ford, 2011-06-27 It is now widely accepted that adaptation will be necessary if we are to manage the risks posed by climate change What we know about adaptation however is limited While there is a well established body of scholarship proposing assessment approaches and explaining concepts few studies have examined if and how adaptation is taking place at a national or regional level Vulnerability and Adaptation Assessments Ron Benioff, Sandra Guill, Jeffrey Lee, 2012-12-06 The possible impacts of global climate change on different countries has led to the development and ratification of the Framework Convention on Climate Change FCCC and has a strong bearing on the future sustainable development of developing countries and countries with economies in transition The preparation of analytical methodologies and tools for carrying out assessments of vulnerability and adaptation to climate change is therefore of prime importance to these countries Such assessments are needed to both fulfill the reporting requirements of the countries under the FCCC as well as to prepare their own climate change adaptation and mitigation plans The vulnerability and adaptation assessment guidelines prepared by the U S Country Studies Program bring together all the latest knowledge and experience from around the world on both vulnerability analysis as well as adaptation methodologies It is currently being applied successfully by scientists in over fifty countries from all the regions of the globe This guidance is being published to share it with the wider scientific community interested in global climate change issues This guidance document has two primary purposes To assist countries in making decisions about the scope and methods for their vulnerability and adaptation assessments To provide countries with guidance and step by step instructions on each of the basic elements of vulnerability and adaptation assessments

Assessing Vulnerability to Global Environmental Change Anthony Patt,Dagmar Schröter,Klein Richard J. T.,Anne Cristina de la Vega-Leinert,Rik

Leemans,2012-05-16 Assessing the vulnerability of human populations to global environmental change particularly climate change is now the main imperative of research and international action However much of the research into vulnerability is not designed to feed directly into decision making and policy creating a gap between the knowledge created by researchers and what is required by decision makers This book seeks to rectify this problem and bridge the gap It discusses vulnerability as the central theme and brings together many different applications from disaster studies climate change impact studies and several other fields and provides the most comprehensive synthesis of definitions theories formalization and applications to date illustrated with examples from different disciplines regions and periods and from local through to regional national and international levels Case study topics cover sea level rise vulnerability to changes in ecosystem services assessing the vulnerability of human health and double exposure to climate change and trade liberalization amongst other issues Research outcomes stress that science policy dialogues must be transparent to be effective and concentrate on a mutual understanding of the concepts used A key research finding is that the most useful information for decision makers is that which shows the separate causes and drivers of vulnerability rather than presenting vulnerability in an aggregated form The book concludes with a unifying framework for analysing integrated methodologies of vulnerability assessment and guiding how research and policy can be linked to reduce vulnerability

The Social and Behavioural Aspects of Climate Change Pim Martens, Chiung Ting Chang, 2017-09-08 Over the past few years and certainly since the publication of the Stern Report there has been increasing recognition that climate change is not only an environmental crisis but one with important social and economic dimensions There is now a growing need for multi disciplinary research and for the science of climate change to be usefully translated for policy makers Until very recently scientific and policy emphasis on climate change has focused almost exclusively on mitigation efforts mechanisms and regulations to reduce greenhouse gas emissions The success of such efforts to date is debatable In fact the impact of ever more stringent emission control programmes could potentially have enormous social consequences Little effort has been expended on the exploration of a systematic evaluation of climate stabilization benefits or the costs of adapting to a changed climate let alone attempting to integrate different approaches There is an increasing recognition that the key actors in the climate crisis also need to be preparing for change that is unavoidable This has resulted in a greater consideration of vulnerability and adaptation The book based on the research programme Vulnerability Adaptation and Mitigation VAM which ran from 2004 to 2010 funded by the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research NWO presents a cluster of case studies of industries communities and institutions which each show how vulnerability adaptation and mitigation analyses can be integrated using social behavioural sciences Each chapter makes specific recommendations for the studied industry sector community or institution analyses the latest research developments of the field and identifies priorities for future research The book argues that the inherent complexity of climate change will ultimately require a much more integrated response both scientifically to better understand multiple causes and impacts as well as at the scientific policy interface where new forms of engagement between scientists policy makers and wider stakeholder groups can make a valuable contribution to more informed climate policy and practice The book is particularly timely as the scientific research and policy debate is shifting from one of problem framing to new agendas that are much more concerned with implementation the improvement of assessment methodologies from a multi disciplinary perspective and the reframing of current scientific understanding towards mitigation adaptation and vulnerability A critical element in responding to the climate change challenge will be to ensure the translation of these new scientific insights into innovative policy and practice on the ground This book provides some fundamental elements to answer this need The Social and Behavioural Aspects of Climate Change Linking Vulnerability

Adaptation and Mitigation will be essential reading for social science researchers and policy managers in the area of climate change as well as for those who want to know what the social and behavioural sciences can contribute toward coping with climate hazards NGOs law firms and businesses in the energy sector or other climate related fields will also find the book of great value

People and Climate Change Lisa Reyes Mason,Jonathan Rigg,2019-04-02 Climate change is a profoundly social and political challenge that threatens the well being livelihood and survival of people in communities worldwide Too often those who have contributed least to climate change are the most likely to suffer from its negative consequences and are often excluded from the policy discussions and decisions that affect their lives People and Climate Change pays particular attention to the social dimensions of climate change It closely examines people s lived experience climate related injustice and inequity why some groups are more vulnerable than others and what can be done about it especially through greater community inclusion in policy change The book offers a diverse range of rich community based examples from across the Global North and Global South e g sacrificial flood zones in urban Argentina forced relocation of United Houma tribal members in the United States gendered water insecurities in Bangladesh and Australia while posing social and political questions about climate change e g what can be done about the unequal consequences of climate change by questioning and transforming social institutions and arrangements It serves as an essential resource for practitioners policymakers and undergraduate graduate level educators of courses in environmental studies social work urban studies planning geography sociology and other disciplines that address matters of climate and environmental change

Climate Change Impacts and Women's Livelihood Salim Momtaz,Muhammad Asaduzzaman,2018-10-08 Very few studies have been conducted to explore the vulnerability of women in the context of climate change This book addresses this absence by investigating the structure of women s livelihoods and coping capacity in a disaster vulnerable coastal area of Bangladesh The research findings suggest that the distribution of livelihood capitals of vulnerable women in rural Bangladesh is heavily influenced by several climatic events such as cyclones floods and seasonal droughts that periodically affect the region Women face several challenges in their livelihoods including vulnerability to their income household assets lives and health food security education water sources sanitation and transportation systems because of ongoing climate change impacts The findings have important policy relevance for all involved in disaster and risk management both within Bangladesh and the developing countries facing climate change impacts Based on the research findings the book also provides recommendations to improving the livelihoods of women in the coastal communities This book will appeal to academics researchers and professionals in environmental management gender and development and climate change governance looking at the effects of and adaptation to climate change gender issues and natural disaster management strategies

Climate Change Adaptation and Mitigation in the Tourism Sector United Nations Environment Programme. Sustainable Consumption and Production Branch,2008 With its close connections to the environment and climate itself tourism is considered to be a vulnerable and highly climate sensitive economic sector similar to agriculture insurance energy and transportation At the same time tourism is a contributor to Greenhouse Gas GHG emissions including emissions from transport accommodation and activities In 2005 tourism s contribution to GHG emissions was estimated to be approximately 5% According to the Davos Declaration on climate Change and Tourism the sector has to rapidly respond to climate change within the evolving UN framework and progressively reduce its Greenhouse Gas GHG emissions if it is to grow in a sustainable way In response to this challenge this publication is designed to provide a pragmatic platform to strengthen the capacity of professionals to understand and respond effectively to the global challenges of climate change in tourism destinations It is the result of the ongoing cooperation between UNEP UNWTO and WMO in the context of the wider UN response to climate change The publication presents an overview of the current science and policy of climate change followed by self guidance material on mitigation and adaptation exploring tools methods and techniques associated with the management of climate change in tourism It also identifies examples of good practice from which stakeholders might learn in order to develop their own capacities for implementing climate change strategies

Climate Change 2014: Impacts, Adaptation and Vulnerability
Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change,2014 The volume focuses on why climate change matters and is organized into two parts devoted respectively to human and natural systems and regional aspects incorporating results from the reports of Working Groups I and III The volume addresses impacts that have already occurred and risks of future impacts especially the way those risks change with the amount of climate change that occurs and with investments in adaptation to climate changes that cannot be avoided For both past and future impacts a core focus of the assessment is characterizing knowledge about vulnerability the characteristics and interactions that make some events devastating while others pass with little notice
