Using Technology to Teach Information Literacy Thomas P. Mackey, Trudi E. Jacobson, 2008 Why teach information literacy technology literacy and discipline specific research skills separately when teaching them together fires students imaginations improves learning visibly demonstrates the value of your library s unique services and expertise to faculty and lets you reach students who might never otherwise walk through the library's doors. The first book on teaching information literacy with technology across the curriculum is full of case studies and lesson plans that will help you put together a cutting edge technology based course for your institution. Each chapter is co-written by a librarian faculty member team involved in a collaborative teaching with technology project. An overview of the literature will help you explain the value of this dynamic approach to faculty and administration. Chapter authors represent a wide range of institutions and disciplines; they give you course goals and organization, the hows and whys of the technologies used, and pitfalls to avoid. Featured technologies include collaborative web tools, presentation software, video, and other multimedia. Podcasts, blogs, wikis, and more. Every academic library will want to have a copy of this book, as will any faculty member involved in teaching information literacy.

Making the Most of the Web in Your Classroom Timothy D. Green, Abbie Brown, LeAnne Robinson, 2008. I have not seen a more teacher friendly resource for using the Web in the classroom. The authors took both novices and experts into consideration. A must have in every school. Elizabeth Alvarez, Math and Science Coach, Chicago Public Schools, IL. A user friendly tool on many levels. I would recommend this book to media specialists, instructional technology teachers, and district coordinators for both content and technology. April DeGennaro, Gifted Education Teacher, Peoples Elementary School, Fayetteville, GA. Translate Web technology into practical applications for the daily curriculum. Designed for novices and experienced users, this comprehensive guide includes all the need-to-know aspects of using the World Wide Web to support student learning. Making the Most of the Web in Your Classroom covers the language of the Web, describes Web editing software, and shows how to use Web tools that offer unique learning opportunities for students. This book examines issues of student safety, appropriate netiquette, and copyright, and other legal considerations, and provides field-tested strategies, examples, and reproducibles to help teachers create powerful learning opportunities. Educators will be able to meet ISTE/NETS technology and content standards as they design and build Web sites. Help students develop their own Internet projects. Evaluate and manage Web projects. Featuring a list of key terms in each chapter, this timely resource will motivate your students and help make technology a seamless part of your classroom instruction.

The New Learning Commons where Learners Win! David V. Loertscher, Carol Koechlin, Sandi Zwaan, 2008. Examines the function and role of school libraries and computer labs. Considers how these resources are used differently than intended because they have been organization based rather than client based.
