CHAPTER 5

TEACHING NOTES

Chapter 5 is short, but it is conceptually more difficult than the earlier chapters, primarily because it requires some knowledge of asymptotic properties of estimators. In class, I give a brief, heuristic description of consistency and asymptotic normality before stating the consistency and asymptotic normality of OLS. (Conveniently, the same assumptions that work for finite sample analysis work for asymptotic analysis.) More advanced students can follow the proof of consistency of the slope coefficient in the bivariate regression case. Section E.4 contains a full matrix treatment of asymptotic analysis appropriate for a master's level course.

An explicit illustration of what happens to standard errors as the sample size grows emphasizes the importance of having a larger sample. I do not usually cover the LM statistic in a first-semester course, and I only briefly mention the asymptotic efficiency result. Without full use of matrix algebra combined with limit theorems for vectors and matrices, it is difficult to prove asymptotic efficiency of OLS.

I think the conclusions of this chapter are important for students to know, even though they may not fully grasp the details. On exams I usually include true-false type questions, with explanation, to test the students' understanding of asymptotics. [For example: "In large samples we do not have to worry about omitted variable bias." (False). Or "Even if the error term is not normally distributed, in large samples we can still compute approximately valid confidence intervals under the Gauss-Markov assumptions." (True).]

This book's strength lies in its ability to present complex material in a simple yet rigorous manner. This superb fourth edition updates identification and estimation methods in the simultaneous equation model. It also reviews the problem of weak instrumental variables, as well as updating panel data methods. Foreign Exchange Option Pricing Iain J. Clark, 2011-10-20 This book covers foreign exchange options from the point of view of the finance practitioner.
