

Geometric Constructions

In this lesson, you learned how a compass and straightedge are used to create constructions related to circles. In this assignment, you will use those tools to complete those constructions on your own.

As you complete the assignment, keep this question in mind:

How do you perform constructions related to circles?

Directions

Complete each of the following constructions, reading the directions carefully as you go. Be sure to show all work and insert an image of each construction. If you are unable to take and insert screenshots of the constructions, print this activity sheet and create them by hand using a compass and straightedge.

Your teacher will give you further directions about how to submit your work. You may be asked to upload the document, e-mail it to your teacher, or print it and hand in a hard copy.

Now, let's get started!

Step 1: Construct a circle through three points not on a line.

- a) Construct a circle through three points not on a line using the construction tool. Insert a screenshot of the construction here. Alternatively, construct a circle through three points not on a line by hand using a compass and straightedge. Leave all circle and arc markings. (10 points)

The screenshot displays a software window titled "Constructing a Circle through Three Points Not on a Line". The window contains a text prompt: "Construct a circle through points X, Y, and Z." Below the text is a workspace with a white background. Three points, labeled X, Y, and Z, are scattered across the workspace. A series of construction lines and circles are shown: three perpendicular bisectors are drawn for the segments XY, YZ, and XZ. These bisectors intersect at a single point, which is the center of a green circle that passes through all three points X, Y, and Z. In the bottom-left corner of the workspace, there is a small icon of a compass and straightedge. Below the workspace is a toolbar with an "Undo" button and two navigation buttons labeled "Intro" and "Final". At the very bottom of the image, a portion of a Windows taskbar is visible, showing icons for Chrome, a file explorer, and other applications.
