An Adaptive Safety Incentives Framework for Construction

Organisations in Developing Economies Kunle Ogundipe, Babatunde Fatai Ogunbayo, Clinton Ohis Aigbavboa, 2025-11-24

The central aim of this book is to focus on safety incentives in a construction context and conceptualise an adaptive safety incentive framework for construction firms in the global south. This book is a collection of knowledge on safety incentives and their impact on improving workplace safety, motivating workers, safety practices, and improving organisations' performance goals in the construction industry. With primary research conducted in Nigeria and secondary comparisons with Ghana, South Africa, China, Malaysia, and Hong Kong, the conceptualised framework provides insights into the multifaceted factors influencing safety incentives in the construction sector. By explaining the behavioural approach to creating reward systems that minimise unintended consequences and maximise happiness, health, wealth, and success, this book takes a pragmatic approach to developing safety incentives and provides significant practical insights. This book identifies the gaps in safety incentives studies by critically reviewing related models, theories, and conceptual models to provide significant recommendations that support the implementation of safety incentives in the construction industry in the global south. Guiding readers on templates for developing safety incentives, this book will interest professionals in building construction, project management, quantity surveying, civil engineering, human resource management, studies, and occupational safety and health (OSH) and owners of construction organisations, as well as researchers in all these fields.

Modern Construction and Ground Engineering Equipment and Methods Frank Harris, 1994. The trend toward increasing mechanisation of construction work to meet today's demands for greater productivity has resulted in the need for more effective application and management of modern construction technology. This second edition of Modern Construction Equipment and Methods provides comprehensive coverage of the factors affecting the decision-making processes in construction and ground engineering, devising temporary works, and selecting appropriate equipment. This book provides an invaluable reference work for students and professionals in the fields of civil engineering, construction, building, surveying, and architecture.

Construction Technology Roy Chudley, Roger Greeno, 1999. Construction Technology provides a comprehensive introduction to every aspect of the technology of domestic low-rise construction, including elements of commercial construction and the principal associated legislation. Based on Construction Technology Volumes 1 and 2, this combined new edition has been updated in line with contemporary legislation and practice. In addition, a substantial amount of new material has also been included in order to cover recent developments in technology affecting the construction industry. The style of the original books by Roy Chudley has been retained, avoiding lengthy descriptive passages and leaving the original diagrams to illustrate best practice and techniques. This book covers the basic elements of substructure, site works, setting out, and foundations, and superstructure, flooring, and roofs, simple finishes, fittings, and fixtures, as well as basic services such as water, gas, electricity, and drainage. It also considers low-rise framed industrial and commercial buildings.
