A

The Ps

The marketing mix is the combination of techniques used to market a brand. The techniques are often called the Ps. Originally there were four Ps:

- Product (or service): what you sell, and the variety or range of products you sell. This includes the quality (how good it is), branding (see Units 16–18), and reputation (the opinion the consumers have) of the product. For a service, support for the client after the purchase is important. For example, travel insurance is often sold with access to a telephone helpline in case of emergency.
- Price: how much the product or service costs.
- Place: where you sell the product or service. This means the location of your shop, or outlet, or the accessibility of your service – how easy it is to access.
- Promotion: how you tell consumers about the product or service. The promotional mix is a blend of the promotional tools used to communicate about the product or service – for example, TV advertising.

Today some marketers talk about an additional four Ps:

- People: how your staff (or employees), are different from those in a competitor's organization, and how your clients are different from your competitor's clients.
- Physical presence: how your shop or website looks.
- Process: how your product is built and delivered, or how your service is sold, delivered and accessed.
- Physical evidence: how your service becomes tangible. For example, tickets, policies and brochures create something the customers can touch and hold.

Marketing a new product

A small educational games company is launching a new game to teach English vocabulary to beginner learners. The marketing manager, Dominic Dangerfield, is making a presentation using PowerPoint slides.

The Turnover Game

PRODUCT:

- Innovative way to learn new vocabulary
- Launch: how we are planning to introduce the product onto the market

PLACE

- Distribution: high street retailers and mail order via website and catalogues
- Delivery: five days by mail order or straightaway in shops

PROMOTION

- Advertising: in children's magazines
- Direct marketing: insert catalogue in Parent magazine

PEOPLE

- Customers: educated, city-dwellers with pre-teen children, school teachers
- Competitors: they have a larger sales force to sell their products

PRICE

- Premium pricing: 20% above market average for a CD-ROM
- Special deals: 15% discount for schools
