Eurocae Ed 143:

The World of Civil Aerospace Ian Jennions, 2019-05-28 Collaboratively written by eleven experts with extensive experience in the field of commercial aviation. The World of Civil Aerospace is a unique book that defines its own category. Covering the beginnings of commercial aviation, aircraft design and certification, manufacturing and testing, airline operation, maintenance and safety among other topics, The World of Civil Aerospace shows the reader the fundamental yet almost invisible aspects of how the planes and airports we use every day actually function. The title, edited by Prof Ian Jennions from Cranfield University in the UK, came about from the desire to share the inner workings of what it takes to create, test, approve, certify and launch a new aircraft. Not mention how to maintain it and make the user experience of flying it positive. With the commercial aviation industry expected to continue to grow for decades to come, the challenges of keeping aircraft in the air safely, reliably and economically are enormous. Thousands of engineers, support personnel, maintainers and crews go to work every day with one goal in mind: to make sure air travel happens as it should. And this is no trivial task. The World of Civil Aerospace brings to light the incredible global network of coordinated tasks and skills needed to make it happen. Federal Register, 2013

Aerospace Sensors Alexander Nebylov, 2012-11-20

Modern air and space craft demand a huge variety of sensing elements for detecting and controlling their behavior and operation. These sensors often differ significantly from those designed for applications in automobile, ship, railway and other forms of transportation and those used in industrial, chemical, medical and other areas. This book offers insight into an appropriate selection of these sensors and describes their principles of operation, design and achievable performance along with particulars of their construction. Drawn from the activities of the International Federation of Automatic Control (IFAC), especially its Aerospace Technical Committee, the book provides details on the majority of sensors for aircraft and many for spacecraft, satellites and space probes. It is written by an international team of twelve authors representing four countries from Eastern and Western Europe and North America, all with considerable experience in aerospace sensor and systems design. Highlights include coverage of aerospace vehicle classification, specific design criteria and the requirements of onboard systems and sensors, reviews of airborne flight parameter sensors, weather sensors and collision avoidance devices, discussions on the important role of inertial navigation systems (INS) and separate gyroscopic sensors for aerospace vehicle navigation and motion control, descriptions of engine parameter information collection systems including fuel quantity and consumption sensors, pressure pickups, tachometers, vibration control and temperature sensors, and descriptions and examples of sensor integration.

Distributed Real-Time Architecture for Mixed-Criticality Systems Hamidreza Ahmadian, Roman Obermaier, Jon Perez, 2018-09-05

This book describes a cross-domain architecture and design tools for networked complex systems where application subsystems of different criticality coexist and interact on networked multi-core chips. The architecture leverages multi-core platforms for a hierarchical system perspective of mixed criticality.

applications This system perspective is realized by virtualization to establish security safety and real time performance The impact further includes a reduction of time to market decreased development deployment and maintenance cost and the exploitation of the economies of scale through cross domain components and tools Describes an end to end architecture for hypervisor level chip level and cluster level Offers a solution for different types of resources including processors on chip communication off chip communication and I O Provides a cross domain approach with examples for wind power health care and avionics Introduces hierarchical adaptation strategies for mixed criticality systems Provides modular verification and certification methods for the seamless integration of mixed criticality systems Covers platform technologies along with a methodology for the development process Presents an experimental evaluation of technological results in cooperation with industrial partners The information in this book will be extremely useful to industry leaders who design and manufacture products with distributed embedded systems in mixed criticality use cases It will also benefit suppliers of embedded components or development tools used in this area As an educational tool this material can be used to teach students and working professionals in areas including embedded systems computer networks system architecture dependability real time systems and avionics wind power and health care systems
