On the Supply Chain in the Fourth Industrial Revolution Lionel Willems, 2018-10-22 Master's Thesis from the year 2018 in the subject Business economics Supply Production Logistics grade 80 00 Louvain School of Management language English abstract This paper addresses the question of how the Industrial Internet of Things (IIoT) defined as the industrial aspect of the fourth industrial revolution will impact supply chain management (SCM) decisions. With this goal in mind we first describe the conceptual and historical approaches of both the industry and supply chain management. The question of the legitimacy of a new industrial revolution is answered positively and the supply chain management discipline is organised in a flow based model of ten managerial categories. A thorough cross field literature analysis delivers the main changes opportunities and challenges that the upcoming IIoT will bring to supply chains. A neutral approach is favoured and the generally optimistic literature regarding the IIoT is questioned. Cyber physical systems will indeed redefine the way we provide goods and services to customers and therefore the way entire supply chains are managed strategically and operationally. More information connectivity and intelligence will optimise operations to enable mass customisation and faster than ever times to market. Those changes will gradually transform supply chains into smart supply ecosystems where inter company boundaries will fade and the nature of cooperation will evolve. Nonetheless there is still a long way to go. Early implementations are challenged by issues of cybersecurity interoperability missing regulations inter company cooperation cost of investment and fear of change due to potential job restructuring. Our results are supplemented by qualitative surveys targeting SCM and IIoT professionals. This methodology is meant to discuss additional insights detect contradictions with the literature and assess the current state of developments.
