It's How You Play the Game: International Perspectives on the Study of Sport Susan Dun, Mo'tasem Kalaji, Marion Stell, 2019-05-15 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2013 Sports events participation and sports programming in the media have come to play an outside role in contemporary society Global events like the Olympics or the FIFA World Cup draw billions of viewers but at the same time sports retain a distinctly local flavor It s How You Play the Game International Perspectives on the Study of Sport covers an extraordinary amount of ground from a variety of disciplinary perspectives From Egypt and Qatar to the Dominican Republic Australia and the US the authors of this fascinating collection use insights drawn from Anthropology Communication Political Economy and Sociology to shed light on the phenomena of sports in the context of politics identity personal and collective business and education drawing out both the global and local implications of the increasing presence of sports in our lives Sport in Museums Kevin Moore,John Hughson,Christian Wacker,2022-06-24 This book explores in breadth and depth the role of sport in museums It surveys the history of sport in museums including the growth in sport museums and halls of fame driven by major sports teams and sport organisations The book considers the humanistic benefits of the promotion of sporting heritage within museums and presents cases museums stories and best practice from around the world Sport in Museums is essential reading for all students researchers curators and historians with an interest in sport It is also a useful resource for researchers and advanced students working in museum studies heritage studies or cultural history Physical Activity in Diverse Populations

Melissa Bopp,2025-09-29 Now in a fully revised and updated new edition this book examines how social determinants such as race ethnicity socioeconomic status sexual orientation gender identity and disability can impact physical activity and its associated health outcomes The book explores the social cultural political and environmental factors that influence engagement in physical activity in a range of diverse populations and presents evidence based culturally appropriate strategies for targeting and promoting physical activity participation Each chapter considers how the social determinants that impact health are formed by the environments in which people live work learn and play Incorporating a series of original case studies this book analyzes physical activity behaviors in groups including African Americans Latinos Asian Americans Native Americans Native Hawaiians military veterans physically disabled populations low income populations and rural populations Also looking at physical activity in lesbian gay and bisexual populations this new edition now has a separate chapter on transgender people reflecting the particular challenges and circumstances facing that group today The book also includes a chapter looking at physical activity from international perspectives With every chapter including useful features such as definitions of key terms summary points and critical thinking questions Physical Activity in Diverse Populations Evidence and Practice is essential reading for any course on physical activity exercise and health This new edition is accompanied by ancillary materials for instructors including slides and a test bank available at www.routledge.com 9781032754680 How Do Emotions and Feelings Regulate Physical Activity? Darko Jekauc,Ralf Brand,2017-09-12

Up to date the scientific discussion about how frequency and regularity of physical activity can be increased is dominated by social cognitive models However increasing evidence suggests that emotions and feelings have greater influence on physical activity than originally assumed Rhodes Fiala Conner 2009 Generally speaking humans possess an evaluative system with a basic action tendency to approach pleasurable events and to avoid aversive ones Cacioppo Berntson 1999 Evaluative responses to a behavior and associated emotional states may influence a decision regarding whether or not to repeat being physically active Generally behavior associated with positive evaluations has a higher probability of being repeated than behaviors without such an association On the contrary an association with negative evaluations tends to decrease the probability of repeating to be physically active Hence evaluative responses to physical activity or the related situation can be an important aspect in the process of physical activity maintenance McAuley et al 2007 Several social cognitive models of behavior change and maintenance were recently extended to take the influence of affective responses into account in a way that variables already included in the models e g outcome expectancies or attitudes were more clearly articulated into their cognitive and affective components For example with regard to Social Cognitive Theory Gellert Ziegelmann and Schwarzer 2012 proposed to distinguish between affective and health related outcome expectancies and in the Theory of Planned Behavior researchers suggested to differentiate between cognitive and affective attitudes Lawton Conner McEachan 2009 The results of these and other studies suggest that affective components make a unique contribution to the explanation of the physical activity behavior Brand 2006 Other examples come from social cognition research where it was shown that automatic evaluative responses are part of our everyday life and that they decisively influence health behavior Hofmann Friese Wiers 2008 Accordingly there is evidence that people who exercise regularly hold more positive automatic evaluations with exercise than non exercisers Bluemke Brand Schweizer Kahlert 2010 Although significant progress has been made in showing that evaluative responses to physical activity and associated emotional states are important predictors of physical activity underlying psychological processes are far from being fully understood Some important issues still remain to be resolved Which role play affective states compared to concrete emotions when influencing physical activity How do affective states and emotions interact with cognitive variables such as intentions Are evaluative processes before during or after physical activity important to predict future physical activity Do negative and positive evaluations interact antagonistically or rather synergistically when physical activity as a new behavior shall be adopted Future research will help us to resolve these and a lot of other so far unresolved issues
