

Height of centre of gravity

The height of the centre of gravity of the chassis cab is given in the technical documentation specific to each model (chassis drawing).

For testing the vehicle complete with superstructure, the manufacturer must check that the height of the centre of gravity of the equipment (including the payload, or of the entire vehicle when fully loaded, falls within the maximum permitted values.

These limits are defined in compliance with the national or international regulations (e.g. EC Directive regarding braking) or requested by the Manufacturers to ensure good handling of the vehicle (e.g. transverse stability of the moving vehicle).

Verification with full load

H_c = Chassis cab maximum height

H_t = Height of centre of gravity of chassis cab vehicle under condition

H_b = Body cab height

W_c = Weight of centre of gravity of body cab excluding its payload

W_b = Vehicle superstructure full loaded

W_t = Height of centre of gravity of vehicle with payload

To check the vehicle with its body but no payload, use the above formula but for H_t use only the vehicle chassis weight. (The position for H_c will depend on the load and deflection of the suspension).

The height of the centre of gravity published in Table 1.4 represents values which are not to be exceeded for each given equipment level. These values have been calculated only in terms of the transverse stability of the vehicle and are applicable to a rigid chassis (i.e. other possible restrictive specifications, e.g. braking regulation, should be taken into consideration).

The values given in Table 1.4 refer to the body with fixed payload in vehicles where the payload tends to move sideways (e.g. suspended loads, fluid loads etc.) especially when turning; higher dynamic transverse forces is generated which makes the vehicle less stable. This must be taken into consideration when providing vehicle operating instructions or for possible reductions in the height of the centre of gravity.
