Audit Case Study: Introduction

Auditing is the process of examining the financial statements of an organization, correcting errors, and eliminating possible cases of fraud. The auditing process is a core activity that enables a company to control its internal activities in an efficient manner. Through auditing, most companies are able to achieve their business goals and objectives (Wang & Tuttle 2009).

Several critics have risen concerning the auditing process. While some businesspersons find it worthwhile to invest in the auditing exercise, some find the auditing exercise unworthy.

In this case, we have the XYZ Ltd Company; a pharmaceutical manufacturing company that was formed because of the splitting of the parent company, ABC Ltd. XYZ Ltd is the smaller of the two newly formed companies and the previous sales manager of the parent company is the Managing Director.

The managing director does not find it worthwhile for the small company to carry out yearend audits. According to him, yearend auditing is an unnecessary exercise that will only increase the expenses of the company without necessarily adding value to the business.

This paper will give a stringent analysis of the newly formed XYZ Company and determine if indeed there is a need to carry out yearend auditing. The paper will also give a detailed discussion of the pros and cons of appointing the same auditors of the parent company to audit XYZ Ltd.

Lastly the paper will give an overview of the audit rotation exercise, its advantages and disadvantages. From the discussions, the paper will give decisive conclusions and recommendations that would enable the XYZ Company's managers to make a worthwhile decision concerning the auditing process.

The Effectiveness of Internal Audit in Central Government Great Britain. National Audit Office,2012 This report examines the effectiveness of internal audit in central government covering both main departments and their associated arm s length bodies

Government is not getting the most out of the 70 million it spends on internal audit because the service does not always focus on the right issues and it is often not of sufficient quality to be useful in decision making 84 per cent of respondents to an NAO consultation considered internal audit added some or substantial value to their organisation but had concerns over the current depth of insight relevance and underlying execution of internal audit work Many key stakeholders believe that internal audit work is not sufficiently tailored to be relevant to the different issues facing individual organisations Treasury guidance on what internal audit should deliver is not sufficiently specific and there is little consistency in the application of standards Variations in quality and coverage mean that the NAO often cannot take assurance from internal audit work There are specific areas where internal audit could be more effective the usefulness and relevance of reports the expertise of staff including expertise on IT based information systems the identification of efficiencies in the organisation and the ability to offer advice to senior management HM Treasury s Internal Audit Transformation Programme is a partial solution to the issues identified by the NAO but needs more detail on what should be expected of an effective internal audit service Nor does the Treasury have an accurate view on the costs of internal audit in government
