Affiliate marketing has grown in popularity due to the Internet. Affiliate marketing is a kind of pay per performance marketing in which a large network of people are compensated for generating sales. Although affiliate marketing has always been there, it skyrocketed to billion-dollar status in the digital marketing realm thanks to analytics and cookies. Through internal analytics, a business that runs an affiliate marketing program may monitor the number of leads generated by each link and determine what percentage of those leads make a purchase. An online store that wants more exposure to potential customers can work with an affiliate. An affiliate can hold more than one website or email marketing list; in this case, the affiliate's network would be much larger. The recruited affiliate then informs their personal and professional networks about the e-commerce platform's offerings and promotes them. The affiliate does this by sending out emails, putting banner and text advertisements on its websites, and so on. Advertisements for goods and services are often presented in the media, such as articles, videos, and photos. People who see the advertising and click on the links will end up in the online store. The affiliate's account is credited with the agreed-upon compensation by the e-commerce merchant when a customer makes a purchase. The commission might range from 5% to 10% of the sales price.
