Tribological Processes in the Valve Train Systems with Lightweight Valves Krzysztof Jan Siczek, 2016-06-17 Tribological Processes in Valvetrain Systems with Lightweight Valves New Research and Modelling provides readers with the latest methodologies to reduce friction and wear in valvetrain systems a severe problem for designers and manufacturers. The solution is achieved by identifying the tribological processes and phenomena in the friction nodes of lightweight valves made of titanium alloys and ceramics both cam and camless driven. The book provides a set of structured information on the current tribological problems in modern internal combustion engines from an introduction to the valvetrain operation to the processes that produce wear in the components of the valvetrain. A valuable resource for teachers and students of mechanical or automotive engineering as well as automotive manufacturers automotive designers and tuning engineers. Shows the tribological problems occurring in the guide light valve seat insert. Combines numerical and experimental solutions of wear and friction processes in valvetrain systems. Discusses various types of cam and camless drives the valves used in valve trains of internal combustion engines both SI and CI. Examines the materials used protective layers and geometric parameters of lightweight valves as well as mating guides and seat inserts.

Political Economy of Malaysia's Industrial Policy Firdausi Suffian, 2021-02-22 This book examines the national automotive policy in Malaysia to help readers gain an understanding of the country's industrial policy making processes. Addressing a gap in analysis of the political economy of the national automotive policy the research presented combines the new institutional theory and the developmental state approach to provide new insights into elite policymakers measures to shield domestic automotive enterprises from pro market reforms. The formation of the national car project marks a turning point for Malaysia's industrial development as a country which it envisions will lead to it becoming a major player in the global automotive market. However the domestic institutional factors embedded in ethno economic interests and patronage constrain national car makers limiting their potential to grow and instead causing a slowdown in the industry. Allowing readers to understand the background to Malaysia's heavy industrialisation programme and the birth of its national car projects this book critically discusses the significance of institutional context in policy outcomes and highlights how institutions and policies have impact growth or decline. It is a valuable resource relevant to analysts researchers and students who are interested in the political economy of the national industrial policy and automotive industry in Malaysia and beyond.

Privatization in Malaysia Jeff Tan, 2007-10-02 In recent years privatisation has fallen out of favour in many countries because the underlying political factors have not been well understood This book examines Malaysia's privatisation programme focusing on how political constraints resulted in the failure of four major privatisations the national sewerage company IWK Kuala Lumpur Light Rail Transit LRT national airline MAS and national car company Proton It considers why developing countries such as Malaysia might want to embark on privatisation the factors that lead to policy failure and what is needed to make it work It shows clearly that political motives driving privatisation often dominate purely economic considerations and thus it is necessary to analyse privatisation within the specific country context It argues that failure in the Malaysian case was due to political considerations that compromised institutional design and regulatory enforcement leading to problems associated with corruption It concludes that privatisation does not necessarily improve incentives for efficiency or enhance the finance available for capital investment and that successful privatisation depends on the state's institutional and political capacity to design and manage an appropriate set of subsidies Overall this book is a comprehensive examination of privatisation in Malaysia providing important insights for understanding the political economy of this process in other developing countries
