Frederick Douglass's Letter to Harriet Tubman
Rochester, August 25, 1848

Dear Harriet:

I am glad to know that the story of your wonderful life has been written by a kind lady, and that the name is soon to be published. You ask for what you need when you call upon me for help and communication. I need such help from you far more than you do from me, especially when it comes to the superior labors and devotedness of those of the liberty enslaved of our kind as I know them. The difference between us is very great. I have done and will do the service of our cause here in public, and I have received the encouragement of every step I take. You, on the other hand, have done a great deal more than I have done, and you have done it in a more private way. I have done nothing but what I have done, and you have done it in a more private way. I have done nothing but what I have done, and you have done it in a more private way.
