- Terry: I love going out with my friends. Terry: He always pays for everybody. He just enjoys spending money! He's so different from his brother. That's my dad of course! The only problem with Harry is that he can be rather impolite. He isn't very polite and doesn't wait before he speaks. The other day he really upset my dad when he told him he was mean.
 - Jodie: My mum's amazing, really. She never loses her temper. She just stays really calm. She's got four children. I'm, my brother and my two sisters and that to ask who do things best or best at things, please we actually do them - but she doesn't get angry. She also works full time at the supermarket and doesn't get home till about 10. I don't know how she fits it all in. She never stops?
 - Martin: My sister and I have completely different personalities. I like meeting new people and am happy to chat to people I don't know - at parties, for example. But Sophie's a bit nervous in situations like that. She wants for people to come to her. But when she gets to know you and starts talking she really makes you laugh.
 - Fiona: We're twins, but we aren't identical. We don't look alike, and our personalities aren't alike, either. For example, I don't say very much, normally I'm fairly quiet. Louise is the complete opposite. She never stops! But she doesn't talk about herself. I'm a bit more like her. For example she got fantastic marks in her exams, but you never hear her talking about it.
- 1 generous, rude 2 patient, hard-working
3 shy, funny 4 talkative, modest

Lesh, Eric Hamilton, James J. Kaput, 2020-10-07 The central question addressed in Foundations for the Future in Mathematics Education is this What kind of understandings and abilities should be emphasized to decrease mismatches between the narrow band of mathematical understandings and abilities that are emphasized in mathematics classrooms and tests and those that are needed for success beyond school in the 21st century This is an urgent question In fields ranging from aeronautical engineering to agriculture and from biotechnologies to business administration outside advisors to future oriented university programs increasingly emphasize the fact that beyond school the nature of problem solving activities has changed dramatically during the past twenty years as powerful tools for computation conceptualization and communication have led to fundamental changes in the levels and types of mathematical understandings and abilities that are needed for success in such fields For K 12 students and teachers questions about the changing nature of mathematics and mathematical thinking beyond school might be rephrased to ask If the goal is to create a mathematics curriculum that will be adequate to prepare students for informed citizenship as well as preparing them for career opportunities in learning organizations in knowledge economies in an age of increasing globalization how should traditional conceptions of the 3Rs be extended or reconceived Overall this book suggests that it is not enough to simply make incremental changes in the existing curriculum whose traditions developed out of the needs of industrial societies The authors beyond simply stating conclusions from their research use results from it to describe promising directions for a research agenda related to this question The volume is organized in three sections Part I focuses on naturalistic observations aimed at clarifying what kind of mathematical thinking people really do when they are engaged in real life problem solving or decision making situations beyond school Part II shifts attention toward changes that have occurred in kinds of elementary but powerful mathematical concepts topics and tools that have evolved recently and that could replace past notions of basics by providing new foundations for the future This section also initiates discussions about what it means to understand the preceding ideas and abilities Part III extends these discussions about meaning and understanding and emphasizes teaching experiments aimed at investigating how instructional activities can be designed to facilitate the development of the preceding ideas and abilities Foundations for the Future in Mathematics Education is an essential reference for researchers curriculum developers assessment experts and teacher educators across the fields of mathematics and science education
