Anne Frank: The Diary of Anne Frank (1952 - February/March 1954) was a German - born Jewish girl who came under the Nazis when she was still in her teens and her family fled to Amsterdam during the German occupation of the Netherlands in World War II. The family had moved to Amsterdam after the Nazis gained power in Germany, but were trapped when the Nazi occupation extended into the Netherlands. As persecution against the Jewish population increased, the family went into hiding in July 1942 in hidden rooms in her father Otto Frank's office building. After two years in hiding, the group was betrayed and transported to the concentration camp system where Anne died of typhus in Bergen-Belsen within three years of her birth. Miriam Frank, the father's sister, having written of the group's experience in Amsterdam after the war ended, is believed to be the one who first revealed that it was a unique record, to which others to have it published in English under the name The Diary of a Young Girl.

The diary was written by Anne Frank in her characteristic wit and candor for the months of her life from 12 June 1942 until the first entry of 1 August 1944. It was eventually translated from its original Dutch into many languages and became one of the world's most widely read books. There have also been several film, television and theatre productions, and even operas, based on the diary. Documented by the world's press and brought back to the diary's readers in a highly successful television production, The Diary of Anne Frank has become one of the most successful and discussed of the Holocaust stories.
