A Mother's Job Elizabeth Rose, 1999-01-14 Americans today live with conflicting ideas about day care We criticize mothers who choose not to stay at home but we pressure women on welfare to leave their children behind We recognize the benefits of early childhood education but do not provide it as a public right until children enter kindergarten Our children are priceless but we pay minimum wages to the overwhelmingly female workforce which cares for them We are not really sure if day care is detrimental or beneficial for children or if mothers should really be in the workforce To better understand how we have arrived at these present day dilemmas Elizabeth Rose argues we need to explore day care's past A Mother's Job is the first book to offer such an exploration In this case study of Philadelphia Rose examines the different meanings of day care for families and providers from the late nineteenth century through the postwar prosperity of the 1950s Drawing on richly detailed records created by social workers she explores changing attitudes about motherhood charity and children's needs How did day care change from a charity for poor single mothers at the turn of the century into a recognized need of ordinary families by 1960 This book traces that transformation telling the story of day care from the changing perspectives of the families who used it and the philanthropists and social workers who administered it We see day care through the eyes of the immigrants whites and blacks who relied upon day care service as well as through those of the professionals who provided it This volume will appeal to anyone interested in understanding the roots of our current day care crisis as well as the broader issues of education welfare and women's work all issues in which the key questions of day care are enmeshed Students of social history women's history welfare policy childcare and education will also encounter much valuable information in this well written book

Biographical Perspectives on Lives Lived During Covid-19 Lisa Moran, Zeta Dooly, 2024-07-19 This volume elucidates international biographical and narrative perspectives on how COVID 19 influenced people's daily lives across different countries and contexts It draws together global interdisciplinary scholarly contributions and conceptualizes the lived life as a complex multilayered and multidimensional phenomenon that is constantly unfolding both in and across time Significantly this volume focuses on seldom heard groups including persons diagnosed with HIV COVID 19 dissenters prisoners essential workers waste pickers refugees and migrants The chapters focus on the pandemic's multifarious impacts on people's lived realities in personal and professional domains exploring the complexity of people's relationships with family friends interactions with colleagues and students and the centrality of emotions to everyday human experiences including grief loss and loneliness as well as moments of joy and processes of personal renewal This volume explores innovative questions issues and challenges on the development and utilization of rich biographical narrative methodologies during COVID 19 addressing important issues like power and voice and pragmatic questions of how to do biographic research whilst socially distant Contributions to this work illuminate the multidimensionality of human experiences adaptability to adverse circumstances and the complexity of working through unanticipated global events whilst reimagining novel social futures
