Title

Cultural Entrepreneurs: Identity and ‘becoming’ a cultural entrepreneur

Dr Annette Naudin

annette.naudin@bcu.ac.uk

Biography

Annette completed a Ph.D. (2015) at the Centre for Cultural Policy Studies, at the University of Warwick, exploring the cultural and media worker’s experience of entrepreneurship. Annette’s current research is concerned with gender and BAME cultural workers as a focus for an interrogation of current practices and the nature of entrepreneurial practice in the cultural industries.

Abstract

This paper seeks to investigate the cultural entrepreneur’s identity in relation to popular notions of the entrepreneur by focusing on the lived experience of cultural entrepreneurship. The interplay and contradictions between different values and identities revealed in this study challenge narrow definitions of the entrepreneur. The cultural entrepreneurs’ stories reveal means of subverting or re-interpreting identities within an urban milieu in which the cultural entrepreneur operates in a social milieu. Some of the tensions described are linked to the specificity of cultural work but other challenges have more universal implications for entrepreneurship studies. Beyond the caricatures usually associated with western traditions, this study explores entrepreneurial identities and characteristics from a broader range of experiences, re-imagining the hero entrepreneur.

Keywords: identities; cultural entrepreneur; stereotypes; networks; cultural policy.
