The Book of the Present Rachael Garratt, 2019-07-26 Persephone Glen had never been a very philosophical person She is not one to ask deep or abstract questions She never spends any considerable quantity of time contemplating the metaphysical or searching for underlying answers Though her family has secrets she is content to let sleeping dogs lie However when her little brother Henry disappears from their backyard she is forced to make a change In order to get her brother back she has to venture into places that are frightening and mysterious With each and every question she asks she gets an answer deeper and more confusing than the last Every question makes her journey harder but every answer gets her a little closer to Henry

The Destroyer and the Lamb Matthias Reinhard Hoffmann, 2005 Matthias Reinhard Hoffmann identifies an angelomorphic portrait of Christ in certain passages of Revelation and provides possible reasons for the inclusion of an angelomorphic Christology Angelomorphic Christology is not regarded as an isolated christological concept In turn the author compares angelomorphic Christology with the prominent Lamb Christology of Revelation A comparison of these concepts reveals that both Lamb and angelomorphic Christology serve the purpose of contrasting different functions of Christ The functions correspond with the implied perception of Christ by his followers on the one hand and his opponents on the other Accordingly Christ appears to be an eschatological juridical figure described in angelomorphic patterns to his opposition while he is perceived as salvific redeemer in form of the Lamb by those who believe in him Such a christological perspective draws on traditions from the Exodus narrative namely the features of the Passover Lamb and the Destroying Angel Further equality between God and Christ is established despite an angelomorphic portrait of Christ especially those passages describing Christ as the Lamb put him on par with God But also within visions with an angelomorphic description of Christ his status as superior to angels and as an equal to God is displayed
