The following information is an excerpt from the Proposal & Award Policies & Procedures Guide (PAPPG). To view the entire PAPPG visit: https://www.nsf.gov/pubs/policydocs/pappg22\_1/index.jsp

Proposal Pagination, Margin and Spacing Requirements

All proposals must be clear, legible, and conform to the following requirements:

- a. Arial, Courier New, Palatino Linotype at a font size of 10 points or larger; or Times New Roman or Computer Modern, 11 points or larger.
- b. A font size of less than 10 points may be used for: mathematical formulas or equations; figures; tables or diagram captions; and when using a Symbol font to insert Greek letters or special characters.
- c. Fonts such as Cambria Math may be used for mathematical formulas, equations, or when inserting Greek letters or special characters.
- d. Margins, in all directions, must be at least an inch.
- e. No more than six lines of text within a vertical space of one inch.
- f. For Fastlane submissions, each section of the proposal must be individually paginated prior to upload. For Research.gov, page numbers are not required because the system will automatically add them.

Required Documents

1. Project Summary (1-page limit)

The proposal must contain a summary of the proposed activity suitable for publication. It must clearly address the following under three distinct headings within the one-page summary:

- an overview of the proposed activity;
- the intellectual merit of the proposed activity;
- the broader impacts resulting from the proposed activity.

Overview	Intellectual Merit	Broader Impacts

FastLane Thomas J. Misa, Jeffrey R. Yost, 2016-01-15 The unique history and development of FastLane the central nervous system of the National Science Foundation Since 2000 the National Science Foundation has depended upon its pioneering FastLane e government system to manage grant applications peer reviews and reporting In this behind the scenes account Thomas J Misa and Jeffrey R Yost examine how powerful forces of science and computing came together to create this influential grant management system assessing its impact on cutting edge scientific research Why did the NSF create FastLane and how did it anticipate the development of web based e commerce What technical challenges did the glitch prone early system present Did the switch to electronic grant proposals disadvantage universities with fewer resources And how did the scientific community help shape FastLane Foregrounding the experience of computer users the book draws on hundreds of interviews with scientific researchers sponsored project administrators NSF staff and software designers developers and managers Engaging Undergraduates in Publishable Research: Best Practices Traci A. Giuliano, Jeanine L. M. Skorinko, Marianne Fallon, 2019-11-20 Although many articles and books have been written about conducting research with undergraduates there is a dearth of research on the process of publishing with undergraduates Thus in this research topic we assembled a collection of 43 articles from 98 researchers worldwide who are passionate about and have had success in publishing high quality peer reviewed journal articles with undergraduates The diverse articles represent a wide range of practices to help researchers publish with undergraduates including structuring the curriculum to promote undergraduate research and publication optimizing research experiences for undergraduates training students in implementing advanced techniques accessing special populations or conducting research in off campus settings addressing institutional and career challenges for faculty and increasing inclusion and diversity Each article provides a unique and diverse perspective that nevertheless resonates across contexts and situations We hope that the ideas models techniques and practices in these articles will motivate and inspire readers to begin continue or rethink how they engage undergraduates in publishable research we also hope to stimulate empirical and quantitative research on the effectiveness of these ideas models techniques and practices

,2001 Creating Effective Undergraduate Research Programs in Science Roman Taraban, Richard L. Blanton, 2008-07-24
This is the first comprehensive data based study of the benefits to students who actively participate in authentic science research programs. The book features contributors from a variety of institutions who bring together studies of undergraduate research programs. They focus on identifying the successful elements of each program and then draw valuable conclusions about the effects those programs have on the students. Providing much needed information about the organization and administration of programs and the challenges to create and sustain viable research opportunities, this essential resource features a variety of perspectives including those of external evaluators, longtime program directors, participants, and administrators. Identifies the characteristics of effective programs and the kinds of gains that faculty and administrators can expect from them. Examines the barriers to research opportunities including lack of departmental and institutional resources and inadequate faculty compensation. Can be used as a primer for creating programs and for determining their effectiveness.
