[82] In the report of the court, calculation of all of the state's witnesses.

[83] The court [84] referred to British state over India from 1857 to 1947.

Q-2) Why did British consider India as "part of the empire"?

A: The British considered India as part of the empire because of its strategic importance, economic value as a major supplier of raw materials, and its vast population. In 1857, British people were allowed to purchase land for British Indian goods. In its foreign policy, Britain had a long British colonial and India the largest "part of the empire".

Q-3) Why did British consider India as "part of the empire"?

A: The British could not enter against the British due to their military and economic power. However, India was not a part of the empire.

Q-4) What might the British have gained from the report of the court and the court's decision?

A: The British had gained the report of the court, which gave us a clear picture of the British. The court had also reported that the British had a long history of colonialism and that the British had a long history of colonialism.

Q-5) Why did the British consider India as "part of the empire"?

A: The British considered India as "part of the empire" because of its strategic importance, economic value as a major supplier of raw materials, and its vast population.
