

A photograph of a server room with rows of server racks. The racks are filled with various components and have numerous indicator lights, some of which are glowing red, suggesting a system issue or emergency. The perspective is from the end of a long aisle, looking down the center. The lighting is dim, with the primary light source being the server lights and some overhead fixtures. A semi-transparent graphic is overlaid on the left side of the image. It consists of a grey cloud shape containing the text 'Disaster Recovery' in white. A thick, orange, curved arrow starts from the top of the cloud and points downwards and to the right, ending near the top of the server rack in the foreground.
