

An illustration of an AVR microcontroller chip. The chip is dark blue with a lighter blue border and is centered in the foreground. It has several pins extending from its top and bottom edges. The letters "AVR" are printed in white on the top surface of the chip. In the background, there are two more similar chips, one on the left and one on the right, slightly faded. The entire scene is set against a dark blue background with a light blue circuit board pattern.
