

A detailed, colorful illustration of a cross-section of the human gastrointestinal tract, specifically the intestinal mucosa. The image shows numerous villi (finger-like projections) on the surface, each containing a central blood vessel and a central lymphatic vessel (lacteal). The villi are colored in shades of blue, green, and yellow, with red indicating the presence of blood. The overall appearance is highly textured and detailed, typical of a scientific illustration from a medical or physiology textbook.
