Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Team Sports: Contextualizing Training and Competition Demands

Miguel-Angel Gomez-Ruano,Pierpaolo Sansone,Vincenzo Rago,2024-12-04 Team sports performance is determined by the complex non linear interaction of several factors including physical and physiological aspects technical tactical constraints mental demands perceptual and emotional aspects and contextual and environmental factors The influence of each of these aspects has been previously investigated However studies have often employed monodimensional perspectives looking at one or only a few different domains concurrently In football and rugby extensive efforts have been produced to contextualize the demands of training and competition based on players characteristics tactical constraints and contextual factors This information facilitates coaches in selecting the most appropriate training and competition strategies based on a number of different factors including the team and the opponents characteristics technical tactical abilities fitness status and considering contextual factors Differently there is a lack of information on contextualized competition demands in other team sports such as basketball handball futsal and volleyball Furthermore the mental demands and psychological and emotional implications of team sports have received little or monodimensional attention limiting the applicability of findings in real life scenarios where a multitude of factors belonging to different disciplines e g physiology psychology training science social sciences need to be taken into account The Validity and Reliability of the Ratings of Perceived Exertion (RPE)

Scale Cami Jones,2020 Despite widespread acceptance as a clinical tool is the RPE scale valid and reliable Theoretically a valid RPE response during exercise should equate to RPE 10 HR heart rate Reliable RPE responses should be within 1 RPE unit of control measures The purpose of the present study was to assess validity and reliability of RPE responses as defined under varied experimental conditions Edelman and Kudzma's Canadian Health Promotion Throughout the Life Span - E-Book

Comparison of Two Rating of Perceived Exertion Scales for Evaluating Training Blaine E. Arney, 2018 The Borg 6-20 Rating of Perceived Exertion BORG RPE and Category Ratio 10 BORG CR10 scales are the most well known and widely used Rating of Perceived Exertion RPE scales in the field of exercise

However no studies have compared the scales directly PURPOSE To compare the BORG RPE and BORG CR10 on an intraindividual level in varying training sessions using concurrent validity verbal anchor and numerical categorical comparisons METHODS Fourteen subjects completed an initial maximal incremental exercising testing to determine maximal physiological values Subjects then participated in six varying intensity two easy two moderate two hard interval exercise sessions The BORG RPE and BORG CR10 were used separately on different occasions for each exercise intensity Regression analysis was used to determine concurrent and construct validity of the two scales RESULTS A strong nonlinear correlation was identified between the two scales  $r = 0.95$  Strong linear correlations were identified between both scales and heart rate BORG RPE  $r = 0.85$  BORG CR10  $r = 0.83$  Good linear correlations were identified between both scales and blood lactate BORG RPE  $r = 0.74$  BORG CR10  $r = 0.78$  CONCLUSION A high degree of equivalence and interchangeability was identified between the BORG RPE and BORG CR10 for perceived effort during exercise training
