The Philosopher in Early Modern Europe Conal Condren, Stephen Gaukroger, Ian Hunter, 2006-09-28 In this groundbreaking collection of essays the history of philosophy appears in a fresh light not as reason's progressive discovery of its universal conditions but as a series of unreconciled disputes over the proper way to conduct oneself as a philosopher By shifting focus from the philosopher as proxy for the universal subject of reason to the philosopher as a special persona arising from rival forms of self cultivation philosophy is approached in terms of the social office and intellectual deportment of the philosopher as a personage with a definite moral physiognomy and institutional setting In so doing this collection of essays by leading figures in the fields of both philosophy and the history of ideas provides access to key early modern disputes over what it meant to be a philosopher and to the institutional and larger political and religious contexts in which such disputes took place
