Rule-Makers or Rule-Takers? Jacques Pelkmans, Daniel S. Hamilton, 2015-08-24 The Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership TTIP is an effort by the United States and the European Union to reposition themselves for a world of diffuse economic power and intensified global competition It is a next generation economic negotiation that breaks the mould of traditional trade agreements At the heart of the ongoing talks is the question whether and in which areas the two major democratic actors in the global economy can address costly frictions generated by their deep commercial integration by aligning rules and other instruments The aim is to reduce duplication in various ways in areas where levels of regulatory protection are equivalent as well as to foster wide ranging regulatory cooperation and set a benchmark for high quality global norms In this volume European and American experts explain the economic context of TTIP and its geopolitical implications and then explore the challenges and consequences of US EU negotiations across numerous sensitive areas ranging from food safety and public procurement to economic and regulatory assessments of technical barriers to trade automotive chemicals energy services investor state dispute settlement mechanisms and regulatory cooperation Their insights cut through the confusion and tremendous public controversies now swirling around TTIP and help decision makers understand how the United States and the European Union can remain rule makers rather than rule takers in a globalising world in which their relative influence is waning
