

the taste of a soap bubble — even if it gets a bit muted over time — and imagine something as simple as a building and it can be so complex when that bubble is the walls, ceiling and floor, looking down to earth, looking up. The question arises: does the building still have a soul? By a soul, I mean: I think each one needs a kind of love. They have needs that aren't caused by factors like the size and what they are. Maybe it's the need to something, but you only wish that there's something out there when you enter a space that's uncharacteristic. For me, I find it a beautiful thing when you're making a building and you imagine the building in that volume. I mean, being to make something a great place. That's really difficult because, because our world has become so busy, with so much being gotten. But I know other places that are much better and you have to go to some lengths to make great things and imagine the sound they make with all their proportions and materials in a distance of their own. I mean the sound I am making most comes out of a heart — but isn't it more simple than that, and more pure than that? How does it really sound when we walk through it? When we speak, when we talk to each other — what will be heard by the other person?

Atmospheres Architectural Environments Surrounding Objects Peter Zumthor:

Atmospheres Peter Zumthor, 2006 What really constitutes an architectural atmosphere Peter Zumthor says is this singular density and mood this feeling of presence well being harmony beauty under whose spell I experience what I otherwise would not experience in precisely this way Zumthor's passion is the creation of buildings that produce this kind of effect but how can one actually set out to achieve it In nine short illustrated chapters framed as a process of self observation Peter Zumthor describes what he has on his mind as he sets about creating the atmosphere of his houses Images of spaces and buildings that affect him are every bit as important as particular pieces of music or books that inspire him From the composition and presence of the materials to the handling of proportions and the effect of light this poetics of architecture enables the reader to recapitulate what really matters in the process of house design , Architect Ruth Peltason, Grace Ong-Yan, 2017-11-07 In this completely revised and up to date edition the world's most accomplished architects Gehry Pei Meier Nouvel Piano and 37 more express their views on creativity inspiration and legacy in this visually stunning one of a kind collection The Pritzker Prize is the most prestigious international prize for architecture Architect includes all 42 recipients of the Pritzker Prize and captures in pictures and their own words their awe inspiring achievements Organized in reverse chronological order by laureate each chapter features four to six of the architect's major works including museums libraries hotels places of worship and more The text culled from notebooks interviews articles and speeches illuminates the architect's influences and inspirations personal philosophy and aspirations for his own work and the future of architecture The book includes More than 1000 stunning photographs blueprints sketches and CAD drawings Architect offers an unprecedented view into the minds of some of the most creative thinkers dreamers and builders of the last three decades and reveals that buildings are political emotional and spiritual A House and its Atmosphere Ben Jacks, 2018-01-15 A House and its Atmosphere is a meditative essay about the experience of designing and building a house of one's own Told in seventy black and white photographs and a series of narrative excursions architect Ben Jacks reflects on a lifetime of influences as he reveals the personal nature of inhabiting a place at the edge of a tidal cove on an island in Maine In the book he quietly advocates for the simple logic and modest ease of direct experience and an observational perspective in architecture In chapters about imagining walking and designing Ben Jacks reflects on the essence of architectural experience describing what it is like to begin to make momentous decisions arguing that aesthetic experience is the result of how one has learned to see Memory family nature relationships and work inform design at every step A House and its Atmosphere is a grounded story about designing and building a small work of architecture With students of architecture and amateur builders in mind Ben Jacks makes a case for design informed by theories of place identification detail and craft The book is a primary source and a chronicle of experience of radical empiricism As such it offers a kind of conceptual tool kit for those interested in thinking about the processes of architecture designing and placemaking The book is a fresh and valuable contribution to the shelter memoir genre from a professional architect's perspective Site-Reliant Immersive Experiences Liana Psarologaki, 2025-09-18 A new theoretical approach to the concept of immersive experiences in relation to space, site and atmosphere Interior Atmospheres, 2008 Spirit of the Place Péter György, 2008-10 A fascinating journey into the often unsettling and shadowy worlds of public memory and memorializing in Europe and the United States of America. Inspired and insightful readings of museums, monuments, libraries and other memory spaces that help to rethink many contemporary orthodoxies about recollective practices, cultural heritage and the very relationship between past, present and future. Expresses the complex relationship between history, media arts, politics and culture. György gives first-hand account, analysis and criticism about places of memory with photos accompanying the text. The presented museums range wide in space and genre: Holocaust sites, museums dedicated to Sigmund Freud all over Europe as well as leading collections of contemporary art. Published by the Center for Media and Communications Studies of the Central European University, distributed by CEU Press.

From Object to Experience Harry Francis Mallgrave, 2018-06-28 Harry Francis Mallgrave combines a history of ideas about architectural experience with the latest insights from the fields of neuroscience, cognitive science and evolutionary biology to make a powerful argument about the nature and future of architectural design. Today the sciences have granted us the tools to help us understand better than ever before the precise ways in which the built environment can affect the building user's individual experience. Through an understanding of these tools, architects should be able to become better designers, prioritizing the experience of space, the emotional and aesthetic responses and the sense of homeostatic well-being of those who will occupy any designed environment. In From Object to Experience Mallgrave goes further, arguing that it should also be possible to build an effective new cultural ethos for architectural practice. Drawing upon a range of humanistic and biological sources and emphasizing the far-reaching implications of new neuroscientific discoveries and models, this book brings up-to-date insights and theoretical clarity to a position that was once considered revolutionary but is fast becoming accepted in architecture.

Building atmosphere Juhani Pallasmaa, Peter Zumthor, 2013 Atmosphere is an essential concept for Swiss architect Peter Zumthor In his text Atmospheres 1996 Zumthor identified a series of themes that play a role in his work in achieving architectonic atmosphere OASE exchanges ideas with Zumthor about the current relevance of this text and about the practice of bringing together these elements in the design and construction process Finnish architect Juhani Pallasmaa relates atmosphere in architecture to examples and theories from other disciplines like psychology and the visual arts Zumthor and Pallasmaa also introduce the work of contemporary architects who in their view succeed in truly creating atmosphere through construction Peter Zumthor English Replacement Peter Zumthor, 2014-02-15 Peter Zumthor English Replacement Volume 3 Peter Zumthor, 2014-03-15 Affective Spaces Federico De Matteis, 2020-11-22 This book explores the notion of affective space in relation to architecture It helps to clarify the first person direct experience of the environment and how it impacts a person's emotional states influencing their perception of the world around them Affective space has become a central notion in several discussions across philosophy geography anthropology architecture and so on However only a limited selection of its key features finds resonance in architectural and urban theory especially the idea of atmospheres through the work of German phenomenologist Gernot Böhme This book brings to light a wider range of issues bound to lived corporeal experience These further issues have only received minor attention in architecture where the discourse on affective space mostly remains superficial The theory of atmospheres in particular is often criticized as being a surface level shallow theory as it is introduced in an unsystematic and fragmented fashion and is a mere easy to use segment of what is a wider and all but impressionistic analytical method This book provides a broader outlook on the topic and creates an entry point into a hitherto underexplored field The book's theoretical foundation rests on a wide range of non architectural sources primarily from philosophy anthropology and the cognitive sciences and is strengthened through cases drawn from actual architectural and urban space These cases make the book more comprehensible for readers not versed in contemporary philosophical trends Peter Zumthor English Replacement Peter Zumthor, 2014-03-15 Atmosferas Peter Zumthor, 2009 Este livro reproduz uma conferência proferida em Junho por Peter Zumthor no palácio de Wendlinghausen no marco do Festival de Literatura e Música da Alemanha Aqui o autor reflecte sobre a capacidade dos seus edifícios e o seu meio de oferecer às pessoas um excelente lugar para o desenvolvimento das suas vidas As suas reflexões servem de ponte de ligação entre os edifícios do próprio Zumthor e a sua relação com o meio envolvente Peter Zumthor, 1998

Adopting the Song of Term: An Emotional Symphony within Atmospheres Architectural Environments Surrounding Objects Peter Zumthor

In some sort of used by displays and the ceaseless chatter of instant connection, the melodic splendor and mental symphony created by the written word usually disappear in to the background, eclipsed by the persistent noise and interruptions that permeate our lives.
