Aging and Communication Prakash C. Sharma,1978

Person-Centered Communication with Older Adults Timothy A. Storlie,2015-06-01 Providers serving older adults face a growing problem Older adults are becoming increasingly dissatisfied with service quality citing deficits in provider communication and relationship skills The author argues this dissatisfaction is largely related to three widespread issues ageism use of professional jargon and age related changes in the older adult To address these concerns Dr Storlie advocates adoption of an evidence based person centered approach to communication The benefits of person centered communication are many They can increase older adult satisfaction with provider services enhance mutual respect and understanding improve accuracy of information exchanged positively impact service outcomes increase compliance with provider recommendations and reduce the frustration and stress often experienced by both provider and older adult Rare to this genre readers are introduced to several under explored topics within the field of communication along with methods for applying concepts from research findings into these topics to enhance the quality of interpersonal communication Topics include the role of mental imagery in the communication process the influence of neurocardiology on relationships and controversial findings from research into quantum physics The book concludes by highlighting progress made in narrowing the interpersonal communication gap and forecasts how communications oriented technological advances might improve quality of life for 21st century older adults and the providers who serve them Utilizing interdisciplinary case studies to illustrate common problematic situations this book provides detailed exercises that explain how providers can integrate person centered communication into their practices to improve provider older adult interactions Written in a style designed to maximize learning it helps providers find the information they need understand what they read and apply what they ve learned to improve professional communication Person Centered Communication with Older Adults is an essential guide for today s healthcare professionals and other aging services providers and also for the educators who help to prepare the providers of tomorrow Presents a conceptual framework for understanding respect based person centered communication

Teaches specific communication skills to aging services providers and educators to assist in effectively communicating with older adults Includes numerous case studies to help in identifying common problematic situations and describing practical ways to integrate positive communication One of the first books to integrate scientific evidence based findings with a personal approach that includes important new information on neurocardiology Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood Mary Lee Hummert, John M. Wiemann, John F. Nussbaum, 1994-09-13 This book is particularly relevant now as the baby boomer generation is aging and a greater proportion of the world's population is growing older Interpersonal communication is clearly the most critical process for promoting social integration and adaptation of older adults within society Yet understanding of the complex dynamics of interpersonal communication with the elderly is severely limited and the aged are often stigmatized stereotyped and isolated This book will help clarify the role of communication in effective social integration and adaptation of the aged by providing comprehensive and in depth analyses of relevant research and theory The book integrates information on the most important issues and contexts influencing interpersonal communication and aging and the individual chapters are written by an excellent group of authors who have demonstrated expertise on their topics The book is well organized clearly written and comprehensive The major topics are logically organized and compelling I highly recommend this book Gary L Kreps Northern Illinois University Aging obviously occurs at many levels with biological psychological and social systems showing multidirectional and interdependent changes What is less obvious is how these factors affect communication in later life This volume represents a strong contribution toward solving this problem by bringing together a group of prominent scholars with diverse perspectives on language communication and aging Elizabeth A I Stine University of New Hampshire The Hummert Wiemann and Nussbaum book brings together a strong theoretical base with the presentation of new data The chapters go well beyond the typical literature reviews usually found in edited volumes The contributors provide sophisticated presentations of a variety of socially significant and unique topics including the communicative impact of physical and cognitive changes sometimes associated with aging patronization verbosity frailty conversational skills proper names and the presentation of self Some of the chapters are strongly quantitative while others are more interpretive After building a strong rationale for the volume the editors go on to put together a series of well written chapters that provide a much needed emphasis on the social construction of relationships through communication The book should prompt much new research and advance our understanding of interpersonal communication and the aging process significantly Teresa Thompson University of Dayton The rich diversity of theoretical and methodological perspectives highlighted within the various chapters is an impressive feature of this edited collection These essays add conceptual breadth and depth to our understanding of interpersonal communication and the process of aging Mary Anne Fitzpatrick Department of Communication Arts University of Wisconsin This book is a valuable addition to the gerontological literature Written from the perspective of the communication researcher it brings together existing literature and offers new insights to gerontologists working in many social science disciplines I recommend Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood as a resource to any scholars interested in older adults Victor G Cicirelli Professor of Developmental and Aging Psychology Purdue University This book is very timely Communication is offering a new wave of aging research and interpersonal processes in communication are where our experiences and our personal theories of aging are grounded This book brings together many of the researchers who are breaking new ground in communication and aging It offers a valuable overview of where we have gone in aging theory communicatively and where we need to go Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood demonstrates the rich diversity of methods and traditions of communication research that are beginning to illuminate gerontology Nikolas Coupland University of Wales Cardiff By highlighting the commonalities across a range of disciplines Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood provides a unique and broad based perspective on communication and aging This integrative approach brings together the best of the current research and theory from communication cognitive psychology psycholinguistics and medical sociology The underlying framework of the book centers around three topics cognition language and relationships exploring the individual areas as well as the ways they intersect In addition this volume brings to light the implications of the elderly population s individual differences as they affect communication and illustrates the positive as well as the negative effects of the aging process on language production relational satisfaction and other communication related variables This major reference source Interpersonal Communication in Older Adulthood is essential reading for anyone concerned with the issues of aging and communication

Handbook of Gerontology Research Methods Leigh Riby, 2016-12-08 The Handbook of Gerontology Research Methods offers a clear understanding of the most important research challenges and issues in the burgeoning field of the psychology of aging As people in developed countries live longer so a range of research methods has evolved that allows a more nuanced understanding of how we develop psychologically and neurologically Allied to this is an increasing concern with the idea of well being a concept which places cognitive performance and development within a more socially grounded context With contributions from a range of top international scholars the book addresses both typical and atypical aging highlighting key areas such as physical and cognitive exercise nutrition stress diabetes and issues related to death dying and bereavement Successful ageing is emphasised throughout the text Each chapter concludes with a series of practical tips on how to undertake successful research in this area This unique collection is the first book to provide both a concise overview of the major themes findings and current controversies in this growing field as well as an understanding of the practical issues when researching older adults which may impact on research outcomes intervention policy and future directions Designed for both students and researchers interested in the psychology of aging but also highly relevant for students or researchers in related fields such as health psychology and social care the Handbook of Gerontology Research Methods is essential reading for anyone wishing to understand more about the psychology of aging
