Macroeconomics Brian Hillier,1986 This is a textbook designed for use by second and third year undergraduate students It employs the types of model currently in use in contemporary textbooks to examine some of the key debates which have taken place recently in the development of macroeconomic analysis Brian Hillier shows how particular ideas and schools of thought have developed as a result of the controversies which have raged in macroeconomics whilst at the same time introducing students to the major literature on the subject Macrodynamics Peter Flaschel,1993 This book on macrodynamic theories of growth in stability and cycles shows that the debate between Keynesians Monetarists and New Classical economists can be reformulated from the perspective of a further and quite different approach to macroeconomic model building Basis of this reformulation is the growth cycle model of Goodwin which is extended in various ways in the pursuit of this aim Besides this central theme the book also introduces into Keynesian Marxian and Neoclassical models of short medium and long run macroeconomics in its part I II Models which synthesize these approaches and which thus provide a deterministic framework for the investigation of the adequateness of the various explanations of cyclical growth and inflation are considered in part III Project Appraisal ,1990 Macroeconomic Theory John A. Harold Kincaid defends a view of the special sciences all sciences outside physics as autonomous and nonreducible He argues that the biological and social sciences provide explanations that cannot be captured by explanations at the level of their constituent parts and yet that this does not commit us to mysterious nonphysical entities like vital forces or group minds A look at real scientific practice shows that the many different sciences can be unified in a way that leaves them each an autonomous explanatory role This book will be of great interest to philosophers of science and social scientists
