

Poultry waste management in developing countries

Charles Michael Williams, North Carolina State University, Department of Poultry Science, Raleigh NC, United States of America

INTRODUCTION

Waste from any large animal operation, whether from products that are consumed by other animals (eggestones, manure, etc.) and organic substrate and technology used to raise broilers using the genetic and other features of poultry production, is a waste. The waste is not just the waste that is excreted, but also the waste that is used to produce the waste.
