The Places In Between Rory Stewart:

The Places in Between Rory Stewart, 2006 Rory Stewart recounts the experiences he had walking across Afghanistan in 2002 describing how the country and its people have been impacted by the Taliban and the American military's involvement in the region The Places In Between Rory Stewart, 2007-02-01 The New York Times bestselling account of a thirty six day walk across Afghanistan shortly after the fall of the Taliban stupendous an instant travel classic Entertainment Weekly In January 2002 Rory Stewart walked across Afghanistan surviving by his wits the kindness of strangers and his knowledge of Persian dialects and Muslim customs By day he passed through mountains covered in nine feet of snow hamlets burned and emptied by the Taliban and communities thriving amid the remains of medieval civilizations By night he slept on villagers' floors shared their meals and listened to their stories of the recent and ancient past Along the way Stewart met heroes and rogues tribal elders and teenage soldiers Taliban commanders and foreign aid workers He was also adopted by an unexpected companion a retired fighting mastiff he named Babur in honor of Afghanistan's first Mughal emperor in whose footsteps the pair was following Through these encounters by turns touching confounding surprising and funny Stewart makes tangible the forces of tradition ideology and allegiance that shape life in this beautiful beleaguered country Born to Walk Dan Rubinstein, 2015-04-01 The case for getting back on our feet The humble act of putting one foot in front of the other transcends age geography culture and class and is one of the most economical and environmentally responsible modes of transit Yet with our modern fixation on speed this healthy pedestrian activity has been largely left behind At a personal and professional crossroads writer editor and obsessive walker Dan Rubinstein travelled throughout the U S U K and Canada to walk with people who saw the act not only as a form of transportation and recreation but also as a path to a better world There are no magic bullet solutions to modern epidemics like obesity anxiety alienation and climate change But what if there is a simple way to take a step in the right direction Combining fascinating reportage eye opening research and Rubinstein's own discoveries Born to Walk explores how far this ancient habit can take us how much repair is within range and guarantees that you'll never again take walking for granted The Power of the Between Paul Stoller, 2009-05-15 It is the anthropologist's fate to always be between things countries languages cultures even realities But rather than lament this anthropologist Paul Stoller here celebrates the creative power of the between showing how it can transform us changing our conceptions of who we are what we know and how we live in the world Beginning with his early days with the Peace Corps in Africa and culminating with a recent bout with cancer The Power of the Between is an evocative account of the circuitous path Stoller's life has taken offering a fascinating depiction of how a career is shaped over decades of reading and research Stoller imparts his accumulated wisdom not through grandiose pronouncements but by drawing on his gift for storytelling Tales of his apprenticeship to a sorcerer in Niger his studies with Claude Lévi Strauss in Paris and his friendships with West African street vendors in New York City accompany philosophical reflections on love memory power courage health and illness Graced with Stoller's trademark humor and narrative elegance The Power of the Between is both the story of a distinguished career and a profound meditation on coming to terms with the impermanence of all things

Anthropology For Dummies Cameron M. Smith, 2021-04-08 Study the science of all of us Anthropology is the organized study of what makes humans human It takes an objective step back to view homo sapiens as a species and ask questions like Given our common characteristics why aren't all of us exactly the same Why do people across the world have variable skin and hair color and so many inventive ways to say hello And how can knowing the reasons behind our differences as well as our similarities teach us useful lessons for the future The updated edition of Anthropology For Dummies gives you a panoramic view of the fascinating fieldwork and theory that seeks to answer these questions and helps you view the human world through impartial anthropological eyes Keeping the jargon to a minimum Anthropology For Dummies explores the four main subdivisions of the discipline from the adventurous Indiana Jones territory of archaeology and the hands on biological insights provided by our physical nature to the studious book cracking brainwork of cultural and linguistic investigation Along the way you'll journey deep into our prehistory where we begin to differentiate ourselves from our primate relatives and then fast forward into the possibilities of centuries yet to come Explore the history of anthropology and apply its methods Get a deep scientific take on contemporary debates such as identity Excavate the human past through new fossil discoveries Peer into humanity's future in space Whether you're studying anthropology for school or just want to know more about what makes us humans who we are this is the perfect introduction to humanity's past and present and a clue to what we need to build a better future

Travelling in Different Skins Dúnlaith Bird, 2012-07-05 Dúnlaith Bird argues that vagabondage a physical and textual elaboration of gender identity in motion emerges as a totemic concept in European women's travel writing from 1850 For travellers including Olympe Audouard Isabella Bird Isabelle Eberhardt and Freya Stark vagabondage is a means of pushing out the physical geographical and textual parameters by which women are defined Travelling in Different Skins explores the negotiations of European women travel writers from 1850-1950 within the traditionally male oriented discourses of colonialism and Orientalism Moving from historical overview to close textual reading it traces a complex web of tacit collusion and gleeful defiance These women improvise access to the highly gendered imaginative geography of the Orient Tactics including cross dressing commerciality and the effacement of their male companions are used to carve out a space for their unconventional and often sexually hybrid constructions Using a composite theoretical basis of the later critical work of Judith Butler and Edward Said this comparative study of British and French colonial empires and gender norms draws out the nuances in these travellers constructions of gender identity Women travel writers are shown to play an important role in the legacy of sexual experimentation and self creation in the Orient traditionally associated with male writers including Gide and Pierre Loti and now ripe for critical re-evaluation This study demonstrates how these women use lived experiences of restriction and negotiation to elaborate advanced theories of motion and gender construction

presaging the concerns of twenty first century feminism and post colonialism Between the Covers Margo Hammond, Ellen Heltzel, 2025-04-08 With wit and wisdom the bibliophile s Ebert Roeper recommend more than 600 books based on what women care about most Between the Covers is organized around their wide ranging curiosity about themselves friends and family the larger world and their concerns from health to sex to managing their finances With such sections as Babes We Love Role Models Real and Imagined The Babe Inside Focusing on Body and Soul and Love Sex Second Chances this unique collection of fiction and nonfiction reflects how women really read

The Marches Rory Stewart, 2016-11-22 From a member of Parliament and best selling author of The Places in Between an exploration of the Marches the borderland between England and Scotland and the political turmoil and vivid lives that created it In The Places in Between Rory Stewart walked some of the most dangerous borderlands in the world Now he travels with his eighty nine year old father a comical wily courageous and infuriating former British intelligence officer along the border they call home On Stewart s four hundred mile walk across a magnificent natural landscape he sleeps on mountain ridges and in housing projects in hostels and farmhouses With every fresh encounter from an Afghanistan veteran based on Hadrian s Wall to a shepherd who still counts his flock in sixth century words Stewart uncovers more about the forgotten peoples and languages of a vanished country now crushed between England and Scotland Stewart and his father are drawn into unsettling reflections on landscape their parallel careers in the bygone British Empire and Iraq and the past present and uncertain future of the United Kingdom This is a profound reflection on family landscape and history by a powerful and original writer An unforgettable tale National Geographic The miracle of The Marches is not so much the treks Stewart describes pulling in all possible relevant history as the monument that emerges to his beloved father New York Times Book Review

The Army Lawyer , 2012-04 Imperial nostalgia Peter Mitchell, 2021-07-12 A strong emotional attachment to the memory of empire runs deep in British culture In recent years that memory has become a battleground in a long drawn ideological war inflecting debates on race class gender culture the UK s future and its place in the world This provocative and passionate book surveys the scene of the imperial memory wars in contemporary Britain exploring how the myths that structure our views of empire came to be and how they inform the present Taking in such diverse subjects as Rory Stewart and inter war adventure fiction man s facial hair and Kipling the Alt right and the Red Wall Imperial Nostalgia asks how our relationship with our national past has gone wrong and how it might be improved

The New Yorker , 2006 African Journey Tony Gaston, 2019-10-15 Fresh out of university in 1968 Tony Gaston set out to explore for birds in the Ahaggar Mountains of the central Sahara Without a map or compass he continued south to Niger and westwards to Liberia and Sierra Leone traveling on trucks and buses and on foot through countries just emerging from colonialism He carried little more than a sleeping bag a teapot and a pair of binoculars to pursue his passion for birdwatching and relied on his wits and the kindness of strangers to help him along He encountered many extraordinary people on the way including Peace Corps volunteers and missionaries policemen and prostitutes

barkeepers and beggars whose stories mix with his own and give shape to his adventures On the fiftieth anniversary of his trip Tony casts a quizzical gaze on the past and its characters forming a reminiscence of youth in the gentler era of the 1960s Drawing from his memory and written records this tale explores the nature of recollection in later life and the fluid association between wealth and well being Internationale Politik ,2007 New Statesman ,2010 Book Review Index - 2009 Cumulation Dana Ferguson,2009-08 Book Review Index provides quick access to reviews of books periodicals books on tape and electronic media representing a wide range of popular academic and professional interests The up to date coverage wide scope and inclusion of citations for both newly published and older materials make Book Review Index an exceptionally useful reference tool More than 600 publications are indexed including journals and national general interest publications and newspapers Book Review Index is available in a three issue subscription covering the current year or as an annual cumulation covering the past year The Times Index ,2005 Indexes the Times and its supplements Not So Innocent Abroad Ulrike Brisson,Bernard Schweizer,2009 With its specific focus on the connections between politics travel and travel writing Not So Innocent Abroad offers a fresh approach to the study of travel literature The authors make clear that travel and travel writing are never an innocent enterprise rather journeying always occurs within political systems and travel writing either reflects the traveler's political stance includes political aspects of foreign cultures or directly or indirectly influences political decisions In contrast to most scholarly publications that primarily focus on travel literature of former colonial nations this volume includes a broader range of travelogues depicting cultures worldwide spanning from the eighteenth to the twenty first century It thus offers with its comparative approach not only a geographically wide selection but also an historical dimension to the political aspects of travel writing Although most travel literature generally has followed the Horatian principle to instruct and delight the armchair traveler the authors of this volume clearly address the broader political implications of travel and travel writing within networks of naked politics such as international or interior conflicts emigration laws or national propaganda They also reveal how insidiously political messages are dissimulated through travel writing Talking Book Topics ,2008-05 Public Library Catalog ,2004 The New York Times Magazine ,2006
