If you are just an average person who is new to investment, you might be terrified of losing what little saving you have. But investment does not have to be that intimidating and complicated. Life would be so much easier if you can invest in something that guarantees your return. While that saying might be impossible, Index Funds are considered very close to it if you invest in the long term. In fact, Index Funds outperform actively managed funds most of the time. The reasons why, first of all, when you purchase an index, the cost of buying the index is equal to the value of the stocks therein, as a result, an index performs in tandem with the stocks it is tracking. Not to mention the cost of passive funds is cheaper than actively managed funds, you can find out later. But now let's take a look at the latest S&P 500. Why Index Funds outperform the majority of the actively managed funds, and yet the cost of index funds is cheaper. How to get started with Index Funds. How to choose the right index and company to invest in. When is the best time to purchase Index Funds. A practical list of the best Index Funds included, but not only exclusive to S&P 500. Why you should never disregard taxes. Possible downsides of Index Funds to take into consideration. Warren Buffett himself has given advice, time and time again, to invest long term in Index Funds. He mentioned that the trick was not to pick the right company and buy its shares, but instead to invest in indexes consistently. In other words, you can invest in Index Funds and let the time work itself. Investing is not as complex as it may seem. If you are a first-time investor looking to grow your nest egg and your aim is for the modest goal of getting the same return as the market, then Index Funds are a great choice to outperform all the complicated product bombardment by the Wall Street.
