Handwriting is unique to each individual. Although some people's handwriting may have similar styles and characteristics in common, significant others have people learned to write by copying letters and words that tend to take on individual styles with age. Thus, as a person ages, their handwriting will have additional changes.

Generally, one cannot determine the age or sex of a suspect or whether they are left-handed or right-handed from a normal writing sample. Compare types of formation and characteristics in writing style and detailed assessment of an original document to give hints at some of these characteristics.

In handwriting analysis, one should look for variations in the slopes, angles, alignment, and spacing of letters.
