Educational Futures: Rethinking Theory and Practice, 2006 RE-BECOMING UNIVERSITIES? David M. Hoffman, Jussi Välimaa, 2016-03-09 This book provides an overview of the major findings of the comparative research project Changes in Networks Higher Education and Knowledge Society CINHEKS The main aim of this international comparative research project is the analysis of how Higher education institutions are networked within distinct knowledge societies in two key regions of the world Europe and the United States of America This research project was carried out in four European countries Finland Germany Portugal and the United Kingdom and in two different states in the United States of America In addition during the course of the research a team from the Russian Federation joined the CINHEKS study The analysis is contextually grounded in a comparative policy analysis focused on the main developments and understandings of the ideas surrounding the term knowledge society in all countries concerned Empirical elaboration is established via a series of sequential studies each building incrementally on the previous study These studies include institutional profiles of higher education institutions institutional case studies and an international comparative survey that illuminates academics social networks The research findings broaden our understanding of the differences and similarities in how higher education institutions and individual academics are networked within and between societies that understand themselves as knowledge societies The book introduces a novel analytical synthesis which asserts contemporary societies have evolved into Networked Knowledge Societies Methodologically the book both challenges and raises the bar for previous approaches in comparative higher education in terms of research design execution and lays the groundwork for a new generation of international comparative higher education research Deleuze and Lifelong Learning C. Beighton, 2015-03-04 This book examines Gilles Deleuze's ideas about creativity in the context of lifelong learning offering an original take on this important contemporary topic using cinematic parallels Discussing Deleuze's difficult notion of counter actualization as a form of creative practice it draws practical consequences for those across a diverse sector Re-Calling the Humanities Russell H. Hvolbek, 2013-09-18 The author has two goals 1 to reintroduce humanity to the humanities and 2 to present a foundation constructed in the reality of the natural languages upon which the studies of human thought and behavior can be successfully understood and explained In the first section of the book the effects of language upon human behavior are illustrated It is argued that as water is to fish language is to humans the medium in which they live think and discover reality The idea that humans are not simply biological animals but thought evolving in language humans are the conversations they construct in language is amplified The second section of the book discusses what this means for the subjects we call the humanities Grounded within the hermeneutic theories of Hans Georg Gadamer the book is addressed to all the students the teachers and the teachers of the teachers of literature poetry history and philosophy in short to the humanities and those who desire to comprehend and explain what we humans beyond pure biology understand and have made of ourselves The Transformative Politics of Music Education Tuulikki Laes, Gert Biesta, Heidi Westerlund, 2025-02-14 This book introduces a unique approach to the interconnections between music education and politics. By taking a broader, more diverse and explicitly ethico-political philosophical and theoretical stance, the book challenges institutional and structural conditions that may be resistant to change and expands the understanding of the professional responsibility of music educators in the 21st century to meet a variety of societal and ecological challenges. Emerging from a collaboration between international music education scholars and prominent contemporary educational theorist Gert Biesta, this book connects contemporary educational theories with music education to unlock its transformational capacity. In eight chapters, the contributors show how music education can move towards ways of being and doing that are attuned to social justice and to the broader social and ecological responsibility of music professionals. Strengthening the interdisciplinary connections between music education and education philosophy, sociology, policy systems, thinking and more, the volume offers a renewed vision of the scope and boundaries of both music teacher education and professional work in music more widely. Connecting the decades-long work of internationally established music educator scholars and ideas from large-scale research projects with a shared interest in transformative theorisation, this book fills a knowledge gap and reframes the philosophy of music education as a vibrantly multidisciplinary theory generating field. Relevant to researchers and students across music teacher education and performance studies, this book speaks to both conservatoires and university contexts across Europe and North America, helping us unlock the transformative capacity of music education.

Re-Reading Education Policies, 2009-01-01 This book collects studies with a critical education policy orientation and presents itself as a handbook of matters of public concern. The term critical does not refer to the adoption of a particular theoretical framework or methodology but rather it refers to a very specific ethos or way of relating to the present and the belief that the future should not be the repetition of the past. This implies a concern about what is happening in our societies today and what could or should be happening in the future. As a consequence, the contributors to the book rely on a general notion of public policy that takes on board processes, practices and discourses at a variety of levels in diverse governmental and non-governmental contexts and considers the relation of policy to power, to politics and to social regulation. Following the detailed introduction that aims at picturing the landscape of studies with a critical education policy orientation, the book presents re-readings of six policy challenges: globalization, knowledge society, lifelong learning, equality, democracy, social inclusion, accountability, control, efficiency and teacher professionalism. It seeks to contextualise these in relation to issues of current global concern at the start of the 21st century. Despite the diversity of approaches, this collection of critical education policy studies shares a concern with what could be called the public and its education and represents a snapshot of education policy research at a particular time.

Re-Positioning University Governance and Academic Work, 2010-01-01 This book examines changing ways that academic work is governed from outside and inside universities in the shifting social, cultural and political contexts of new times.

Chapters trace developments in institutions national sectors and internationally all applying a global scope to identify significant shifts in the broader conditions of university operation Attention is given to governance processes across all key domains of academic work teaching research leadership management and institutional organisation Key trends are analysed including risk management audit culture league tables techniques of accountability and more These investigations bring forth re conceptions of university governance as involving increasingly distributed and networked arrays of mechanisms affecting academic work practices relations values emotional labours and identities Ambiguities tensions and complexities of academic work are explored and questions are raised as to whether prevailing managerial modes of governance can address these features of university engagement with globalising contexts

Beyond the Modern-postmodern Struggle in Education Ilan Gur-Ze'ev,2007 This book is an attempt to historically and conceptually address the present human condition and the current specific role of education as a distinctively creative symbolic violence In doing so the book reevaluates the various manifestations and conflicting alternatives to normalizing education The author suggests a unique Diasporic counter education that transcends modern politics postmodern philosophical assumptions and spiritual telos towards an impetus for the re birth of what the author refers to as the enduring improviser It is a first step towards a new critical language that addresses the challenges of globalizing capitalism of the cyberspace of racism and of the new antisemitism that springs from postcolonialism The book calls for a creative rearticulation of the relations between the aesthetic the ethical the intellectual and the bodily dimensions of the cosmos and human life It is an invitation for a new Diasporic religiosity one which turns courageously towards the exile of the gods It addresses the ever strengthening and tempting sophistication of the anti humanistic dimensions of our postmodern pleasure machine of pre modern redemption projects and of modern deceiving offers for emancipation The book is of special relevance for students of critical sociology critical philosophy Jewish philosophy cultural studies feminist studies education and for all friends of the free spirit
