Post offices - securing their future Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Business and Enterprise Committee,2009-07-07 For Vol 1 Report see ISBN 9780215532725 Financial inclusion Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Treasury Committee,2007-04-04 Includes the Government s combined response to three Committee reports i HCP 848 I 12th report session 2005 06 ISBN 9780215031396 on access to affordable credit and financial advice ii HCP 1717 13th report session 2005 06 ISBN 9780215031426 on access to banking services and iii HCP 53 1st report session 2006 07 ISBN 9780215031518 on the roles of the Government and the FSA in improving financial capability It also includes a response from the Financial Services Authority and a letter from the chairman of the Banking Code Standards Board

Cash Machine Charges Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Treasury Committee,2005 About one third of ATMs now make direct charges to consumers and in 2004 it is estimated that UK consumers paid 140 million in charges made whilst accessing funds through cash machines The Committee s report examines the principle and increasing trend towards charging the clarity of presentation of these charges to the consumer the likely impact on financial exclusion and low income households and key areas for action from government regulators and the industry Findings include that although there has been an increase in free machines as well as charging machines their location and the lack of transparency about which machines make charges hinders genuine competition and consumer choice Recommendations include that there should be a clearer indication of the amount of surcharge on external signage with standardised labelling for all free and charging machines The LINK network agreement needs to improve consumer representation and its enforcement mechanisms The trend towards ATM charges should not be allowed to exacerbate existing financial exclusion and the Government should ensure that the switch to direct payment of benefits does not disadvantage recipients in their access to cash

Financial Exclusion S. Carbó,E. Gardner,Philip Molyneux,2015-12-17 This text is concerned with the increasingly important and problematic area of financial exclusion broadly defined as the inability and or reluctance of particular societal groups to access mainstream financial services This has emerged as a major international policy issue There is growing evidence that deregulation in developed financial sectors improves financial inclusion for some societal groups more products become available to a bigger customer base but may at the same time exacerbate it for others for example by emphasizing greater customer segmentation and more emphasis on risk based pricing and value added In developing countries access to financial services is typically limited and therefore providing wider access to such services can aid financial and economic development This is the first text to analyze financial exclusion issues in different parts of the world and it covers the various public and private sector mechanisms that have been advanced to help eradicate this problem

Banking the Unbanked Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Treasury Committee,2006 Financial exclusion can impose significant costs on individuals and be a barrier to employment and enterprise Many people are still facing problems in opening basic bank accounts and operating them to maximise their value Some banks are not meeting their obligations under the Banking Code This report sets out an agenda for action for the Government banks and the Banking Code Standards Board It also looks at other issues where further action is required such as the banks and utility companies giving greater priority to low cost payment options and the need for the DWP to review third party deduction schemes The Government needs to ensure that problems with accessing bank accounts are resolved before extending the system of direct payment of housing benefit The plans for the migration away from the Post Office Card Account have not been well handled and the report recommends that the Government works with the Post Office in promoting financial inclusion Independent
