Introduction

Design variables provide a method for specifying critical parameters just before a simulation. This allows you to make quick changes to parameter values across single or multiple critical components without having to edit any schematic components. Design variables can also be used to create parametric analysis, which are groups of design variables across a range of values and display multiple simulation results on a single plot.

Using Design Variables

This part of the tutorial will show you how to parametrize the width of the shafts and flange thickness of an armature by using design variables. These variable values are then set using the Running Through Environment panel in simulation.

1. Make a copy of the assembly with subassemblies you have previously designed, or create a new one.
2. Open the subassemblies of the assembly.
3. Start with one of the SHAFTS subassemblies as depicted in, and define the parameters by using clicking on it and entering Properties. For now you give "r" as a variable.
4. Define the rest of the shafts too, and give r_{10} . This specifies that a variable called r_{10} will be used to set the width of the SHAFT. When you do this, observe that values for "Thickness Difference Key" change from a constant value to a formula that involves the variable r_{10} . Always check to make sure that formula is updated when you change the width to a variable otherwise, your simulation results will be incorrect. Click OK to apply the change.
5. Repeat this procedure to change the width of the FLANGE to r_{11} .
6. Save Design \rightarrow Check and Save. Verify that there are no errors.
7. Launch the Analysis Running Through Environment.
8. Set up the simulation environment as you normally would for simulating a schematic. This includes specifying a simulation file and material properties, creating the APP, if needed under in the environment options, and selecting the compute to be plotted on the schematic.
9. In APP, select Variables \rightarrow Copy Properties. The design variables r_{10} and r_{11} should appear in the Design Variables area of the Running Environment Window.
10. In APP, select Variables \rightarrow Value. In the value box, type 2.0 and then apply the value by clicking Apply. Change the value of r_{10} to 2.0 and click Apply. Check the values have been assigned, click OK. See Figure 1 and 2 below.
11. In APP, use the connections by selecting Simulation \rightarrow Variable and Run. After loading the the simulation to complete, the results window will pop-up. The results should be
