Gendered Magic Anna Köhler, 2025-10-20 At the surface fantastic storyworlds appear free of the constraints of reality yet for all their limitless potential most popular fantasy texts still cling to patriarchal representations of gender Drawing on the cognitive framework of Cultural Models Theory CMT this book examines the reasons behind this phenomenon by analyzing the intersection between gender and magic in four contemporary fantasy series J K Rowling's Harry Potter Terry Pratchett's Discworld novels Robin Hobb's Farseer trilogy and Jonathan Stroud's Bartimaeus trilogy Magic as a core manifestation of the impossible that sets fantasy apart from other genres serves as the focal point for an exploration of the strategies by which fantasy engages with gender issues on its own terms Showcasing the potential of CMT as a tool for literary analysis and more specifically as a framework through which to understand both gender and genre this book provides new insights into how readers make sense of fantastic storyworlds and the anchoring role that gender models play in that process Overall this analysis demonstrates how CMT can improve our understanding of the interplay of author reader text and cultural context and the significant role of human cognition therein The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2005

Subcreation: Fictional-World Construction from J.R.R. Tolkien to Terry Pratchett and Tad Williams Stefanie Schult, 2017-01-26 The doctoral thesis argues that the term Subcreation with its revised and broadened definition in part differing from J R R Tolkien's original term sub creation may be used for the discussion of the making of fictional worlds in literary discourse The successful conception of a fictional world depends on the reader's willing suspension of disbelief This depends both on the author and his skilled composition of the world and all its aspects as well as on the reader's acceptance of this invented fictional world The author needs to create a narrative with an inner consistency which is crucial to achieving the effect of the reader's immersion in the fictional world The fundamental aspects that an author needs to realize to achieve successful Subcreation have been structured into and analysed in four categories Language and Linguistic Variation Physiopoeia Anthropoeia and Mythopoeia Furthermore this thesis shows that as contemporary examples of fantastic literature both Tad Williams's and Terry Pratchett's fictional worlds are successfully created through the realization of these aspects of Subcreation Apart from commenting on the success of the subcreative process this thesis also remarks upon the cultural influences both authors include in their writings While both may be considered Anglophone in a general categorization Pratchett s Discworld retains a feeling of Britishness that is not to be found in Williams s Otherland The thesis proposes several approaches to Subcreation that may be studied subsequently So for example it may be possible to determine the success of an author s Subcreation by collecting empirical data Apart from literary works this field of studies may also include other media
