client's objectives and how the client establishes and instils a culture throughout the project team. This book's focus is on defining and exploring those attributes of clients or organisations which enable clear communication and as a result help ensure the project's success. For senior construction professionals this book explains how to approach key aspects of projects so that the client's expectations can be anticipated and understood. It also provides information on how other parties can positively influence the outcome of the project and interact with their fellow stakeholders. Commentaries on real life projects illustrate how this is achieved in practice and common pitfalls are pointed out to help you avoid them. Drawing on almost 40 years UK and international experience of working on major construction projects in a variety of roles the author provides clear insight into how to efficiently progress a project from inception through to completion. This is hugely valuable reading for client senior decision makers, project managers, programme managers, design and construction leaders and those studying all of these subjects.

The Successful Construction Supervisor and Foreman Paul Netscher, 2019-03-22. Construction is desperate for good, experienced, skilled and dedicated supervisors and foremen. Construction needs you. Being a construction supervisor or foreman is challenging; it's hard work but it's also rewarding watching projects take shape under your watch. A supervisor's job is never boring; every day is different, each project is different, different locations and different people all presenting new challenges. A construction foreman, foreperson or supervisor supervises a work crew or manages a section of work. They're at the coalface of every construction project, the critical link in the construction process. Good foremen and supervisors are essential to the success of every construction project and every construction company; indeed they're invaluable. Yet few managers and supervisors are prepared to mentor and train the next generation of supervisors and foremen. Most supervisors and foremen have years of experience on the tools, learning their trade sometimes through apprenticeships but mostly learning from others. These skills are focused on a particular trade or skill. But being a supervisor is a different ballgame. Where before as a trades person they were doing the work themselves, now as supervisor they must organise and manage others doing the work. I'm a construction professional with 30 years of experience and the author of several acclaimed construction books including Successful Construction Project Management: The Practical Guide and Construction Management: From Project Concept to Completion. As a young engineer and later as project manager, I was fortunate to learn from many excellent supervisors and foremen; I wouldn't have achieved what I did without them on my projects. They were the powerhouse on my construction projects and I only had to steer the project to a successful conclusion. Now it's my turn to share my 30 years of construction experience and knowledge with construction supervisors and foremen. To explain why things are done in a certain way, why good paperwork is essential but more importantly to help supervisors and foremen become the very best.
