Gender, Climate Change and Livelihoods Joshua Eastin, Kendra Dupuy, 2021-07-26 This book applies a gendered lens to evaluate the dynamic linkages between climate change and livelihoods in developing countries It examines how climate change affects women and men in distinct ways and what the implications are for earning income and accessing the natural social economic and political resources required to survive and thrive The book's contributing authors analyze the gendered impact of climate change on different types of livelihoods in distinct contexts including urban and rural and in diverse geographic locations including Asia Africa and the Caribbean It focuses on understanding how public policies and power dynamics shape gendered vulnerabilities and impacts how gender influences coping and adaptation mechanisms and how civil society organizations incorporate gender into their climate advocacy strategies Adaptation and mitigation policies in Cameroon Félicien Kengoum, Anne Marie Tiani, The purpose of this study is to identify new synergistic pathways between climate change mitigation and adaptation policies in Cameroon using an approach based on a literature review of the political processes that led to the introduction of the two strategies The common feature of the two political processes is the absence of strategy in Cameroon The country is finding it difficult to assimilate and coordinate these processes at the national level More attention is being given to mitigation than to adaptation In any case it is difficult to formulate any political options without complete studies on the responses to the drivers of deforestation and forest degradation and on the vulnerability of the forest populations and their capacity to absorb climate shocks Facing Global Environmental Change Hans Günter Brauch, Navnita Chadha Behera, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, John Grin, Úrsula Oswald Spring, Béchir Chourou, Czesław Mesjasz, Heinz Krümmenacher, 2009-06-04 The year 2007 could perhaps accurately be described as the year when climate change finally received the attention that this challenge deserves globally Much of the information and knowledge that was created in this field during the year was the result of the findings of the Fourth Assessment Report AR4 of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC which were disseminated on a large scale and reported extensively by the media This was the result not only of a heightened interest on the part of the public on various aspects of climate change but also because the IPCC itself proactively attempted to spread the findings of its AR4 to the public at large The interest generated on the scientific realities of climate change was further enhanced by the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to the IPCC and former Vice President of the US Al Gore By taking this decision in favour of a leader who has done a great deal to create awareness on climate change and a body that assesses all scientific aspects of climate change and disseminates the result of its findings the Norwegian Nobel Committee has clearly drawn the link between climate change and peace in the world Framework for Community-based Climate Vulnerability and Capacity Assessment in Mountain Areas Mirjam Macchi, 2011 Livelihood Adaptation to Climate Variability and Change in Drought-prone Areas of Bangladesh Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2006 The impacts of climate variability and change are global concerns but in Bangladesh they are particularly critical FAO and the Asian Disaster Preparedness Centre are guiding a project to assess livelihood adaptation to climate variability and change in the drought prone areas of Northwest Bangladesh It covers the characterisation of livelihood systems profiling of vulnerable groups assessment of past and current climate impacts and understanding of local perceptions of climate impacts local coping capacities and existing adaptation strategies It also is developing a good practice adaptation option menu evaluating and field testing locally selected options and introducing long lead climate forecasting capacity building and training of Department of Agricultural Extension staff and community representatives This report summarises the project methodology and discusses interim findings and recommendations Climate Change and Migration, 2008 UN publications sales number E 08 III S 4 Recent empirical studies have found that climate variability and migration are characterized by a non linear relationship This study explores the climate change impacts on migratory processes It outlines the key elements of natural and human induced climate change of potential relevance to migration discusses the current state of debate about the relationship between climate change and migration and describes possible approaches and methodologies with which to further our understanding of climate change related migration

Migration, Environment and Climate Change Frank Laczko, Christine Aghazarm, 2009 Gradual and sudden environmental changes are resulting in substantial human movement and displacement and the scale of such flows both internal and cross border is expected to rise with unprecedented impacts on lives and livelihoods Despite the potential challenge there has been a lack of strategic thinking about this policy area partly due to a lack of data and empirical research on this topic Adequately planning for and managing environmentally induced migration will be critical for human security The papers in this volume were first presented at the Research Workshop on Migration and the Environment Developing a Global Research Agenda held in Munich Germany in April 2008 One of the key objectives on the Munich workshop was to address the need for more sound empirical research and identify priority areas of research for policy makers in the field of migration and the environment
