Smugglers Arianne Des Rochers, 2023-08-10 Translation is commonly understood as the rendering of a text from one language to another a border crossing activity where the border is a linguistic one But what if the text one is translating is not written in one language indeed what if no text is ever written in a single language In recent years many books of fiction and poetry published in so called Canada especially by queer racialized and Indigenous writers have challenged the structural notions of linguistic autonomy and singularity that underlie not only the formation of the nation state but the bulk of Western translation theory and the field of comparative literature Language Smugglers argues that the postnational cartographies of language found in minoritized Canadian literary works force a radical redefinition of the activity of translation altogether Canada is revealed as an especially rich site for this study with its official bilingualism and multiculturalism policies its robust translation industry and practitioners and the strong challenges to its national narratives and accompanying language politics presented by Indigenous people the province of Qu bec and high levels of immigration

Historical journey in a linguistic archipelago Emilie Aussant, Jean-Michel Fortis, This volume offers a selection of papers presented during the 14th International Conference on the History of the Language Sciences ICHoLS XIV Paris 2017 Part I brings together studies dealing with descriptive concepts First examined is the notion of accidens in Latin grammar and its Greek counterparts Other papers address questions with a strong echo in today s linguistics localism and its revival in recent semantics and syntax the origin of the term polysemy and its adoption through Br al and the difficulties attending the description of prefabs idioms and other fixed expressions This first part also includes studies dealing with representations of linguistic phenomena whether these concern the treatment of local varieties so called patois in French research or the import and epistemological function of spatial representations in descriptions of linguistic time Or again now taking the word representation literally the visual display of grammatical relations in the form of the first syntactic diagrams Part II presents case studies which involve wider concerns of a social nature the from below approach to the history of Chinese Pidgin English underlines the social roles of speakers and the diversity of speech situations while the scrutiny of Lhomond s Latin and French textbooks demonstrates the interplay of pedagogical practice cross linguistic comparison and descriptive innovation An overview of early descriptions of Central Australian languages reveals a whole spectrum of humanist to positivist and antihumanist stances during the colonial age An overarching framework is also at play in the anthropological perspective championed by Meillet whose socially and culturally oriented semantics is shown to live on in Benveniste The volume ends with a paper on Tr n c Th o whose work is an original synthesis between phenomenology and Marxist semiology wielded against the idealistic doctrine of Saussure

Pronunciation Instruction in English for Academic Purposes

John Hodgetts,2020-09-04 This book examines the pronunciation goals of teachers course leaders and learners on a ten week UK pre sessional access course particularly with regard to suprasegmental instruction and target of instruction on how these goals are reflected in pronunciation assessment and how teacher goals are informed by their attitudes and beliefs A mixed methods approach including direct observation and semi structured interviews is employed to address the area of enquiry Results show a lack of clarity of course goals Although there is a firm emphasis on suprasegmental instruction in semi structured interviews teachers report a lack of clear course goals and guidance Assessment and practice do not always adhere to a goal of intelligibility and support for teachers in terms of the materials and how they might be exploited seems limited The book concludes with tentative recommendations on how suprasegmental instruction might be facilitated on EAP and other courses
