Beautiful Evidence Edward R Tufte:

Beautiful Evidence Edward R. Tufte, 2006 Science and art have in common intense seeing the wide eyed observing that generates empirical information Beautiful Evidence is about how seeing turns into showing how empirical observations turn into explanations and evidence presentations The book identifies excellent and effective methods for presenting information suggests new designs and provides tools for assessing the credibility of evidence presentations Here we will see many close readings of serious evidence presentations ranging through evolutionary trees and rocket science to economics art history and sculpture Insistent application of the principles of analytical thinking helps both insiders and outsiders assess the credibility of evidence Beautiful Evidence, the Library of Edward Tufte Edward Tufte, Christie's New York, 2010

Landscape Theory in Design Susan Herrington, 2016-12-08 Phenomenology Materiality Cybernetics Palimpsest Cyborgs Landscape Urbanism Typology Semiotics Deconstruction the minefield of theoretical ideas that students must navigate today can be utterly confusing and how do these theories translate to the design studio Landscape Theory in Design introduces theoretical ideas to students without the use of jargon or an assumption of extensive knowledge in other fields and in doing so links these ideas to the processes of design In five thematic chapters Susan Herrington explains the theoretic groundings of the theory of philosophy why it matters to design an example of the theory in a work of landscape architecture from the twentieth and twenty first centuries debates surrounding the theory particularly as they elaborate modern and postmodern thought and primary readings that can be read as companions to her text An extensive glossary of theoretical terms also adds a vital contribution to students comprehension of theories relevant to the design of landscapes and gardens Covering the design of over 40 landscape architects architects and designers in 111 distinct projects from 20 different countries Landscape Theory in Design is essential reading for any student of the landscape The Routledge Handbook of Magazine Research David Abrahamson, Marcia R. Law School 2.0 David I. C. Thomson, 2009 Legal education is at a crossroads As a media saturated generation of students enters law school they find themselves thrust into a fairly backward mode of instruction much of which is over 100 years old Over those years legal education has resisted many credible reports recommending change most recently those from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and from the Clinical Legal Education Association Meanwhile the cost of legal education continues to skyrocket with many law students graduating with crushing debt they have difficulty paying back All of these factors are likely to reach a crescendo in the next few years setting the stage for a perfect storm out of which can come significant change But legal education has successfully resisted systemic change for many years Given that dubious track record the only way significant change can reasonably be predicted is if something is different this time Fortunately there is something different this time the ubiquity of technology Since the MacCrate report in 1992 the internet has achieved massive growth and a generation of students has grown up with sophisticated and pervasive use of technology in nearly every facet of their lives This book describes how the perfect storm of generational change and the rising cost and criticisms of legal education combined with extraordinary technological developments will change the face of legal education as we know it today Its scope extends from generational changes in our students to pedagogical shifts inside and outside of the classroom to hybrid textbooks all the way to methods of active interactive and hypertextual learning And it describes how this shift can and will better prepare law students for the practice of tomorrow Choice, 2008 Policy and Practice in Antarctica Jessica L. O'Reilly, 2008 This dissertation analyzes how Antarctic scientists and policy makers influence environmental management for the continent In Antarctic society scientific expertise and authority as well as conceptions of the Antarctic place must be constantly shaped through policy and practice I conducted sixteen months of ethnographic fieldwork and interviews in Christchurch New Zealand a central site of Antarctic culture at political and scientific meetings and workshops in New Zealand Australia Scotland and India and on a research expedition near Scott Base Antarctica I examined the lived intricacies of this international environmental space and people's relationship to Antarctic environmental management by mapping examining and traveling within the networks that scientists and other Antarctic community members form Competing claims of nationalism scientific disciplines field experiences and personal relationships in Antarctic environmental management disrupt the idea of a utopian epistemic community so I focused on what emerges in Antarctica among the complicated and hybrid forms of science sociality politics and national membership found there This dissertation contains case studies that depict how knowledge based communities form and have effects in Antarctica These case studies include 1 a camping rule that rocks moved by people must be returned to their original location 2 biosecurity regulations for Antarctic species and non native species to Antarctica 3 international negotiations over a special managed area and 4 the contributions of Antarctic scientists policy and data to climate change mitigation These formations and effects take work not the least of which involves at least tentative agreements of the core ideas of expertise and communities Antarctic people translate science through the policy system to make environmental management decisions through playful and serious arrangements of policy and practice humans and nonhuman entities In particular policy and practice in these Antarctic expert communities coalesce in the making of procedures documents and audiences In the Antarctic referring lives and work of human and nonhuman expert community members this continent of peace science and other exceptionalisms is crafted as a technocratic wilderness
