

How does feminist criticism open up meaning in "Mrs Midas." Write an analysis of the poem including reference to the critical anthology to support your interpretation. "Mrs Midas" is a revisionism version from the female perspective of King Midas' story, an ancient Greek myth about a man who could turn everything to gold with a touch. This poem explores the sadness Mrs Midas feels in regards to not being able to feel the touch of her husband to the anguish, annoyance and disgust she has for him about his greediness. This poem is very interesting for feminist critics as there are both arguments for Mrs Midas being a strong willed person that does not let him ruin her life as she runs away and lives without him. However there is another reading that her husband controls her emotion and all she longs for is a loving husband. Right from the beginning the voice is of Mrs Midas who retells the story from her point of view. This would interest feminist critics as in literature women are sometimes voiceless or only heard behind the men however it is clear Mrs Midas has the control and is telling her story; through her humour and metaphor we are able to understand the breakdown of her marriage as well as the idea that "wealth isn't everything" in a different way that King Midas' story told this idea.

Secondly, it may be seen that Mrs Midas is challenging society's demand of "feminine behavior" as Simone de Beauvoir would put it as it she "poured a glass of wine this action shows a lack of interest in the idea that women are not meant to be drinkers. The way the poem is introduced so casually "it was late September. I'd just poured a glass of wine..." gives the impression that Mrs Midas is a woman who is not bound by traditional gender roles and is willing to challenge them. This is a key theme in feminist criticism, the idea that women should not be limited to passive roles and should instead be active participants in their own lives. The poem's casual introduction of the wine-pouring act suggests that Mrs Midas is a woman who is comfortable with her own choices and is not concerned with what others might think.

The poem's use of metaphor is also significant. Mrs Midas compares her husband to a "golden touch" and a "golden cage." These metaphors suggest that her husband's greediness has turned him into something cold and unfeeling, like gold. At the same time, the "golden cage" metaphor implies that Mrs Midas feels trapped by her husband's actions and the consequences of his greediness. This is a common theme in feminist criticism, the idea that women are often trapped in patriarchal structures and are unable to escape them. The poem's use of metaphor allows Mrs Midas to express her feelings in a way that is both powerful and evocative.

The poem's ending is also significant. Mrs Midas says, "I'd just poured a glass of wine." This simple act of pouring wine suggests that Mrs Midas is still alive and still capable of simple pleasures. This is a key theme in feminist criticism, the idea that women should be able to enjoy their lives and find happiness in their own ways.

The poem's overall message is one of empowerment and resistance. Mrs Midas is a woman who is not afraid to challenge traditional gender roles and to express her own feelings. She is a woman who is strong and independent, and who is willing to stand up for herself. This is a key theme in feminist criticism, the idea that women should be able to live their lives on their own terms and to challenge the status quo. The poem's use of metaphor and its casual introduction of the wine-pouring act suggest that Mrs Midas is a woman who is comfortable with her own choices and is not concerned with what others might think.

Conclusion

The poem "Mrs Midas" is a powerful and evocative work of literature that explores the themes of greediness, empowerment, and resistance. Through its use of metaphor and its casual introduction of the wine-pouring act, the poem suggests that Mrs Midas is a woman who is comfortable with her own choices and is not concerned with what others might think. This is a key theme in feminist criticism, the idea that women should be able to live their lives on their own terms and to challenge the status quo. The poem's overall message is one of empowerment and resistance, and it is a powerful reminder that women should be able to enjoy their lives and find happiness in their own ways.

Posting the Male Daniel Lea, Berthold Schoene-Harwood, 2003 The essays collected in Posting the Male examine representations of masculinity in post war and contemporary British literature focussing on the works of writers as diverse as John Osborne Joe Orton James Kelman Ian Rankin Carol Ann Duffy Alan Hollinghurst Ian McEwan Graham Swift and Jackie Kay The collection seeks to capture the current historical moment of crisis at which masculinity loses its universal transparency and becomes visible as a performative gender construct Rather than denoting just one fixed polarised point on a hierarchised axis of strictly segregated gender binaries masculinity is revealed to oscillate within a virtually limitless spectrum of gender identities characterised not by purity and self containment but by difference and alterity As the contributors demonstrate rather than a gender in crisis millennial manhood is a gender in transition Patriarchal strategies of man making are gradually being replaced by less exclusionary patterns of self identification inspired by feminism Men have begun to recognise themselves as gendered beings and as a result masculinity has been set in motion
