

An abstract painting with a textured, layered appearance. The top portion features a mix of green, blue, and brown tones, suggesting a sky or distant landscape. Below this, a dense, dark line of thin, vertical, brownish branches or trees stretches across the width of the image. The lower two-thirds of the painting is dominated by a large, vibrant red field, which transitions into darker, more textured areas of red and black towards the bottom. The overall style is expressive and somewhat somber.

Studies in the Literary Imagination, 2018 Journal of Dramatic Theory and Criticism, 2013 Border Crossing and Reader Reception in "The Emperor's Babe", "Mr. Loverman" and "Girl, Woman, Other" by Bernardine Evaristo Marnie Hensler, 2021-09-21 Master's Thesis from the year 2021 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 0 University of Freiburg English Department language English abstract This paper uses both distant and close reading methods to analyse reader reception of Bernardine Evaristo's works The Emperor's Babe Mr Loverman and her Booker Award winning publication Girl Woman Other Through experimental form and style approachable characters and humorous style of writing Evaristo successfully draws the contemporary reader into the story world and educates her on the constructedness of cognitive borders and social categorizations sex gender age race class et cetera After the reader crosses the border into the story world she follows the individual journeys of the fictional characters with the help of mind reading and narrative empathy and leaves the story world with differences in cognitive processing followed by effects on cognition perception and action To empirically analyse the educational border crossing effect of a literary work that reaches beyond the reading experience this paper uses reception data from Goodreads in the form of reader profile information and reviews on The Emperor's Babe, Mr Loverman and Girl Woman Other. After a theoretical introduction to the historic development of the academic interest in both border and empirical reception studies the results section will outline the major findings of a descriptive statistical analysis of the retrieved data for the reception of all novels. Each novel's reception will then be looked at individually through distant and close reading of the respective book's narrative techniques. A discussion section will compare the findings of the distant and close readings of all three books under discussion. The paper will close with a critical summary of the findings in the conclusion and give an outlook on the advantages and opportunities provided by the study of the subversive border crossing effects of literature in general. The influence of fiction on a reader's personal life and social cognition has been of interest to academia ever since the beginnings of reader response criticism and the cognitive turn of the 1980s. Literature after all has the power to serve as a springboard for subversive thought, the precursory movement of a transformation of social and cultural structures. Reader response and reception theorists, cognitive literary critics and empirical receptionists have thus been trying to empirically explain the transformative subversive powers of literature.

Affect Theory and Literary Critical Practice Stephen Ahern, 2018-12-31. Affect Theory and Literary Critical Practice develops new approaches to reading literature that are informed by the insights of scholars working in affect studies across many disciplines with essays that consider works of fiction, drama, poetry and memoir ranging from the medieval to the postmodern. While building readings of representative texts, contributors reflect on the value of affect theory to literary critical practice, asking what explanatory power is affect theory affording me here as a critic, what can the insights of the theory help me do with a text. Contributors work to incorporate lines of theory not always read together, accounting for the affective intensities that circulate through texts and readers and tracing the operations of affectively charged social scripts. Drawing variously on queer, feminist and critical race theory and informed by ecocritical and new materialist sensibilities, essays in the volume share a critical practice founded in an ethics of relation and contribute to an emerging postcritical moment.

Affect Theory and Early Modern Texts Amanda Bailey, Mario DiGangi, 2017-03-22. The first book to put contemporary affect theory into conversation with early modern studies, this volume demonstrates how questions of affect illuminate issues of cognition, political agency, historiography and scientific thought in early modern literature and culture. Engaging various historical and theoretical perspectives, the essays in this volume bring affect to bear on early modern representations of bodies, passions and social relations by exploring the role of embodiment in political subjectivity and action, the interactions of human and non-human bodies within ecological systems and the social and physiological dynamics of theatrical experience. Examining the complexly embodied experiences of leisure, sympathy, staged violence, courtiership, envy, suicide and many other topics, the contributors open up new ways of understanding how Renaissance writers thought about the capacities, pleasures and vulnerabilities of the human body.

The Times of Their Lives A. W. R. Whittle, 2018 The Times of their Lives explains how archaeologists can now move away from thinking about history in terms of thousands of years to periods from one or two centuries down to lifetimes and generations a little more than two decades This vastly improved precision comes from the application of Bayesian chronological frameworks for the interpretation of radiocarbon dates If they do the right things archaeologists in general and prehistorians in particular need not confine themselves any longer to the long term which has often been seen as the defining currency of the discipline 0Many prehistorians are still uncomfortable with the choice of narratives now available or have not yet critically rethought old habits This book will show how temporally much more precise accounts of the past can be achieved across a broad range of contexts and situations It offers a series of case studies across much of the continent to provide much more precise timings of key features and trends in the European Neolithic sequence than are currently available and to construct much more precise estimates of the duration of events and phenomena From these there is the possibility to open up new insights into the tempo of change through the detailed study of selected sites and situations across the span of the European Neolithic from the sixth to the early third millennia cal BC At stake is our ability to study the lives of Neolithic people everywhere at the scale of lifetimes something unimaginable even a few years ago
