Bad Bugs in the XXIst Century: Resistance Mediated by Multi-Drug Efflux Pumps in Gram-Negative Bacteria Attilio Vittorio Vargiu, Klaas Martinus Pos, Keith Poole, Hiroshi Nikaido, 2016-08-12 The discovery of antibiotics represented a key milestone in the history of medicine However with the rise of these life saving drugs came the awareness that bacteria deploy defence mechanisms to resist these antibiotics and they are good at it Today we appear at a crossroads between discovery of new potent drugs and omni resistant superbugs Moreover the misuse of antibiotics in different industries has increased the rate of resistance development by providing permanent selective pressure and subsequently enrichment of multidrug resistant pathogens As a result antimicrobial resistance has now become an urgent threat to public health worldwide <http://www.who.int/drugresistance/documents/surveillancereport/en> The development of multidrug resistance MDR in an increasing number of pathogens including Pseudomonas Acinetobacter Klebsiella Salmonella Burkholderia and other Gram negative bacteria is a most severe issue Membrane efflux pump complexes of the Resistance Nodulation cell Division RND superfamily play a key role in the development of MDR in these bacteria RND pumps together with other transporters contribute to intrinsic and acquired resistance to most if not all of the antimicrobial compounds available in our drug arsenal Given the enormous drug polyspecificity of MDR efflux pumps studies on their mechanism of action are extremely challenging and this has negatively impacted both the development of new antibiotics that are able to evade these efflux pumps as well as the design of pump inhibitors The collection of articles in this eBook published as a Research Topic in Frontiers in Microbiology section of Antimicrobials Resistance and Chemotherapy aims to update the reader about the latest advances on the structure and function of RND efflux transporters their roles in the overall multidrug resistance phenotype of Gram negative pathogens and on strategies to inhibit their activities A deeper understanding of the mechanisms by which RND efflux pumps alone or synergistically with other efflux pumps are able to limit the concentration of antimicrobial compounds inside the bacterial cell may pave the way for new more directed inhibitor and antibiotic design to ultimately overcome antimicrobial resistance by Gram negatives

Role of Lipids in Virus Assembly Jamil S. Saad, Delphine M. Muriaux, 2015-07-28 RNA enveloped viruses comprise several families belonging to plus and minus strand RNA viruses such as retroviruses flavoviruses and orthomyxoviruses Viruses utilize cellular lipids during critical steps of replication like entry assembly and egress Growing evidence indicate important roles for lipids and lipid nanodomains in virus assembly This special topic covers key aspects of virus membrane interactions during assembly and egress especially those of retroviruses and Ebola virus EBOV Virus assembly and release involve specific and nonspecific interactions between viral proteins and membrane compartments Retroviral Gag proteins assemble predominantly on the PM Despite the great progress in identifying the factors that modulate retroviral Gag assembly on the PM there are still gaps in our understanding of precise mechanisms of Gag membrane interactions Studies over the last two decades have focused on the mechanisms by which other retroviral Gag proteins interact with membranes during assembly These include human immunodeficiency virus HIV Rous sarcoma virus RSV equine infectious anemia virus EIAV Mason Pfizer monkey virus M PMV murine leukemia virus MLV and human T lymphotropic virus type HTLV 1 Additionally assembly of filoviruses such as EBOV also occurs on the inner leaflet of the PM The articles published under this special topic highlight the latest understanding of the role of membrane lipids during virus assembly egress and release GEOPATHS—Broadening the Voices in Geosciences James H.
