Lesson Title/Unit: Organizing for Management
Student Learning Target: I understand how businesses organize and why they need to organize for management.
Assessment: 1 sentence summary		Materials: Text, Paper, Pencil

	CRISS Principles	CRISS strategy Code alignment with principle numbers	Description of lesson and Metacognition Prompts
BEFORE	1. Metacognition 2. Background Knowledge 3. Purpose Setting 4. Active Learning 5. Discussion 6. Writing 7. Organization 8. Author's Craft 9. Explanation & Modeling 10. Teaching for Understanding	KWL Chart about the need to organize for management. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7	I always tell students that when it comes to business they are experts because they have been the targets of business advertising their whole lives and they have experience with businesses. Our job is to study why and how businesses are successful and develop a professional vocabulary of terms about day-to-day business operations. The goal was for students to write down what they knew about business organizations so I would know what prior knowledge they had.  Metacognition Prompt:
	1. Metacognition 2. Background Knowledge 3. Purpose Setting 4. Active Learning 5. Discussion 6. Writing 7. Organization 8. Author's Craft 9. Explanation & Modeling 10. Teaching for Understanding	Read Pair Share I mixed this up a bit and has students read, take notes, pair up, then share with the whole class. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10	This part of the lesson allows students to confirm what they thought they knew with a partner first then with the whole group. This part of the activity also allows the students to take notes and correct or clear up their notes right away. This is instant feedback for the students. They are also able to help each other learn. This allows me time to listen in on conversations to clear up misunderstandings easier than if I were just to lecture.  Metacognition Prompt:
AFTER	1. Metacognition 2. Background Knowledge 3. Purpose Setting 4. Active Learning 5. Discussion 6. Writing 7. Organization 8. Author's Craft 9. Explanation & Modeling 10. Teaching for Understanding	One Sentence Summary over what we learned about organizing for management.	This is a great tool for me to use to measure understanding. It is quick to look over and is very accurate as to what the students learned from the lesson and what I need to revisit with the group. It also gives me a chance to respond to the students and answer questions they might have.  Metacognition prompt: What did you learn from the KWL and what helped you learn that?
